

WE NOMINATE

Martin Schwarzschild, 50-year old Princeton astronomer and one of the imaginative scientists of his time, who this week returned to the country's news-columns with the announcement by the Office of Naval Research that a "revolution in astronomy" may enable Schwarzschild and his associates to determine "whether or not there is life on Mars." Behind the announcement, reminiscent even in the age of the astronaut of Jules Verne and Tom Swift, stretch years of work during which a Schwarzschild-directed staff has been perfecting ways of hoisting into the stratosphere a 36-inch telescope, large even by earth standards and capable of lifting veils that have long inhibited studies of the heavens.

The concept of Schwarzschild's "Stratoscope II" is easily understandable: using an intricate balloon system to raise some 14-15 miles into space a radio-controlled telescope that will enable specially designed television cameras to focus on such phenomena as the "canals on Mars" and the "white dots on Venus." Involved in the undertaking, however, are such factors as developing control mechanisms that at altitudes of 80,000 feet will hold the telescope virtually motionless on its targets. Calculations show that in order to achieve clear photographs of faint objects in space the telescope must not shift more than six millionths of a degree for at least an hour.

It was just five years ago that Schwarzschild's "Stratoscope I" captured the attention of laymen and scientists by giving the world the sharpest, most detailed pictures ever taken of the sun. Some 15 miles above Wisconsin and Minnesota a telescopic motion-picture camera, that had been carried aloft by a helium-filled balloon, shot 1,000 feet of film which ranged over 100,000,000 miles of the sun's surface and showed that the face of the sun is a mass of gaseous eddies 200 to 500 miles in diameter. Up to that point only the largest eddies — whirlpools of burning hydrogen — had been visible in pictures taken from earth-bound observatories.

The vision and enthusiasm of the German-trained Schwarzschild, a Princetonian for the past 15 years, have catapulted "astronomical ballooning" into a top-priority position in the nation's efforts to push back the frontiers of knowledge. One authority suggests that "the scientific discoveries made in this manner may rival those of the rockets fired from Cape Canaveral"; the project already represents an investment of some $3,000,000 and more will be needed from government, industry and education; and research installations from Norwalk, Conn., to Palestine, Texas, are now adhering to a break-neck pace to assure launchings in February or March.

The son of a German astronomer, and a scientist lost to Germany because of the excesses of Adolf Hitler, Schwarzschild left his native land in the mid-1930's, taught in Norway, and in 1937 joined the staff of the Harvard Observatory to continue his work "on the manner in which stars are born, mature, grow old and die." He became a citizen of the United States in 1942 and shortly thereafter enlisted in the Army as a private.

An outstanding product of Officer Candidate School, he earned both the Legion of Merit and the Bronze Star, the latter for his work in evaluating American bomb damage in the Italian campaign.

For recently emphasizing that "it's unbelievably lucky to be an astronomer in this country at this time"; for his major, and continuing, contributions in the upper reaches of fundamental science; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

This Is PRINCETON

ABOUT THE TOWN . . .

Almanac For Newcomers

This is the season when new families move into Princeton . . . to study, teach, do research or work at jobs.

As a kind of guidebook for the newcomers who are among us for the first time this fall, TOWN TOPICS offers a snapshot picture of what the town is like, how it differs from other towns and what new residents can expect.

Princeton is really two towns. This is not a metaphor, but a political and geographic fact. Geographically, the Borough is a hole in a doughnut and the Township is the doughnut around the hole. The arrangement goes back to the 18th century when Princeton was the half-way point on the stage route between New York and Philadelphia. In a few days, the Borough was the cluster of houses and shops along the King's Highway (Nassau Street) and the Township was the farmland.

THIS IS PRINCETON: Although Albert Einstein died in 1953, his home at 112 Mercer Street is still pointed out to visitors. Its white paint and dark shutters, its trim hedge and its shading tree mark it as typical of many Princeton homes. Newcomers who would like to learn more about their new town may read about Princeton below. (Staff Photo)

Politically this means that today, Princeton has two of everything, two mayors, two governing bodies, two police chiefs, two police forces, two school superintendents, two separate school systems.

In population, the two are about equal with 11,890 in the Borough, 10,320 in the Township, for a total of 22,210.

In reality, however, there is only one Princeton, a unified community built around the learning process. It is often called an intellectual town, but "scholarly" might be a more accurate description, if one thinks of the current interpretations sometimes given to "intellectual."

There are, for example, no conventional intellectual trap-pings. Two or three years ago, someone started a little coffee house on Nassau Street where people could meet to play chess, sip coffee, listen to jazz, wear sandals and talk. After a few months, it quietly faded away because, in Princeton, people do all these things in their own homes.

The Male Animal. Here, the scholars live a middle-class life, getting married and divorced and raising families and wearing conservative suits and probably not growing beards. Mingling with them at PTA meetings (men, both scholars and non-scholars, attend PTA meetings in Princeton) or in the supermarkets (many men shop) are the community's middle and lowbrows.

Often these are commuters men who are away from home 11 or 12 hours a day, usually working in New York, often working at some enterprise allied to education. There are about 270 commuters who ride the "dinky" to Princeton Junction and the Pennsylvania main line every morning, a score or more who drive up to Belle Mead, the Reading and three or four who take the bus. Another 350 or so drive to the Junction and commute from there.

Considering Princeton's geographic location in suburbia, the ratio of commuters to population is low. Because of the presence of giants like RCA, Educational Testing Service and the University, plus the Gallup opinion research com-bine, dozens of other research organizations and many small electronic plants, most Princeton residents live and work right here in town.

These people — commuters, stay-at-homes, faculty, rich and poor — form a casual and informal, but rarely chummy, community. Princeton men and women have for years been the despair of the town's clothing merchants because of their casual mode of dress.

Credit Risk? A Princeton jeweler tells the story of a man who selected a $700 diamond and started to pay for it by check. The customer was unshaven, dressed in a torn sweater and a pair of dirty sneakers, and the jeweler decided on a quiet talk with the man's bank before accepting the check. The bank informed him that the customer could buy hundreds of $700 diamonds and still be quite solvent.

Princeton women wear a uniform consisting of round-collared blouses, Bermudas (summer) and tailored skirts (winter). A woman wearing a suit on Nassau Street is on her way to New York. She is wearing the same black suit she has worn to New York for six years. In Princeton, high fashion is a sign that one's mind is on the serious side of life.

Socially, Princeton residents take in each other's wash. Teen-agers have been complaining recently that "we have no place to go." Neither have their parents, because entertaining is traditionally done at home. I invite you to my house, you invite me to yours. It may be a party given by a key-punch operator in a Copic Cod living-room so small that everybody sits on the floor, or a garden party for 200 given

Person To Person

The other day we heard some facts about Egyptian mummies, and made some noise on the lesser known information.

Corey S. Kammer, Princeton, thought you'd find interesting. As you know, the Egyptians were preserving their dead long before many other parts of the world had reached a civilized state, and they had it down to a science. For example, the soles of the feet of mummies, when unwrapped after as much as 3000 years, were still soft and elastic. Historians estimate that by 700 A.D. when the practice had died out among them, the Egyptians had embalmed approximately 720 million bodies, almost one third as many people now living in the entire world, or about thirteen times the number of all the people now living in the United States. Of course many have been destroyed, or over the centuries disintegrated in the tropical heat of northern Africa, but several million are estimated still to be preserved in undiscovered tombs and burial places. It is our job to provide you with a card that will stand up under today's conditions and traffic, and then to preserve it for you so that you can enjoy its use over a longer than normal period. And this is the job that we've gotten down to a science. . . and we do so for you most economically. May we please serve you? Kammer, Buick-Pontiac Co., 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

PROBLEM CHILD: Control of this youngster is among the numerous problems debated at municipal levels in a residential community such as Princeton.

by a man who clips coupons, but it is given at home. Princeton citizens who wish to go out-of-the-town either go to New York or across the Delaware to New Hope, Pa. Occasionally someone will discover a small, out-of-the-way restaurant in Trenton.

Breaking the ice. The town has a reputation for coldness, and newcomers sometimes find it hard to make friends unless they are accepted by a group already in existence, like workers in the same lab, or men in the same department at the University. In time, these groups become official and it is a common experience in Princeton to attend parties where all the guests are RCA, ETS, University, Gallup, or because so many Princeton graduates move back to live, all alumni.

The YWCA has formed a Newcomers Club to help this situation, and it has attracted many women with its varied program and its offer of sociability from many different kinds of people.

The church is almost the only place where Princeton people socialize regularly outside of their homes. This is a church-going town, with more than 13,000 residents who belong to churches, ranging from Catholic to Church of Christ to Ethical Culture.

Originally, a Presbyterian community (the University was first a Presbyterian seminary), Princeton now has more Catholics than anything, with Episcopalians second. There are some 4,500 on the rolls at St. Paul's and about 3,300 at Trinity Episcopal. Some 475 adults attend the Jewish Center.

Italian Heritage. The size of St. Paul's membership reflects the presence of Princeton's largest non-Anglo Saxon group, the residents of Italian descent whose grandfathers came here 70 years ago to carve stone for University buildings. For the past few years, most Italian families have been coming to Princeton from the same section of Italy, the Campobasso area near Naples.

The Italian grandmother walking along Ewing Street in her black dress and shawl with gold earrings in her pierced ears is as much a part of the town as the narrow-shouldered advertising man from Wilson Road, hurrying to catch the 741.

Princeton's Negroes, about seven percent of the population, have lived here even longer and many are descended from slaves who came north with University students at the time of the Civil War. Negroes live, for the most part, in a "ghetto" but more than half a dozen have moved to scattered locations throughout the town.

reflecting a quiet move toward integration.

In recent years, Princeton has become a small UN, with coming students and visiting lecturers from Nigeria, Yugoslavia, India. Nobody stares any more at the African in bright robes perched on a stool at The Ball, or the Indian woman in her sari pushing a cart in the market.

Princeton has a similar sophistication toward celebration. John O'Hara lives here, so does Robert Oppenheimer. When the city has installed their minister, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas would address the crowd, nobody made much of a fuss.

No Town-Gown Rivalry. The magnet for most of these people is the University. Relations between Town and Gown go back to 1723. The University contributes $10,000 annually to the Borough because so many of its holdings are tax-free, but it is also the biggest taxpayer in the Borough and one of the two biggest in the Township. The Shopping Center is the other, paying on faculty housing, the University Store and other properties not used for education.

It contributes also, the spice and freshness of under-graduate life. One of the most exciting times to be in Princeton is on a brisk, sunny Saturday in autumn when Nassau Street is jammed for the Big Game ahead in Palmer Stadium. Some Princeton families make a point of strolling uptown, dazed looking at pretty girls imported from Vassar, mother looking at the clothes worn by Vassar, and the kids waving balloons and pennants bought from the man on Vandewater. Or in June, when thousands of alumni return to parade the town in the costumes of space men, clowns, cowboys or Scotch highlanders.

Many Princeton residents know undergraduates only as exasperating cyclists who make driving a nightmare, or as critics who deliver running commentaries right out loud during movies at The Playhouse.

The undergraduate is more, however; he is a hard-studying young man, as he has to be and he is probably a hard-working one as well. About a third of the 3,000 undergraduates have part-time jobs. A few jobs pay as much as $1,200 a year, others provide $250 to $300 of a year's expenses.

What with the University, Westminster Choir College, the Seminary and the Institute for Advanced Study, life in Princeton is almost too rich for the lay mind.

For example, last fall during the week of the Yale Game, one could attend, besides the game itself, a Yale-Princeton Glee Club concert, a concert by the Lenox String Quartet, an evening of Thornton Wilder plays given by a resident professional company, a lecture in Spanish on philosophy, a public discussion of fallout shelters, a lecture on "Optical Properties of the Helium-Neon Optical Maser" and a talk on war and the Christian conscience. These, among others.

Consolidation? Maybe. The fallout shelter discussion symbolizes the issues that flame through Princeton, then die away. The town has, in recent years, been almost torn apart by a proposal to consolidate Borough and Township (consolidation is regarded as THE issue to many residents); by another proposal to fluoridate the water (that one died aborning); by a suggestion that the privately-owned water company be publicly owned and, currently in the Township, by dog control.

Politically, Princeton is a Republican rock in the Democratic sea of Mercer County. At present, all office-holders are Republican. All office-holders are always volunteers, paid a token salary, but Princeton's growth has been so fast the volunteers can scarcely keep up with it.

Township growth has been of the mushroom kind. Only 10 years ago, packs of wild

TOPICS Of the Town

DOG LAW PASSED

After Third Try, The Township now has a new dog ordinance. The measure, a moderate compromise between total restraint and no restraint, was passed, 3-2, Tuesday by Township Committee after a public hearing in the Valley Road School auditorium attended by about 35 persons. The previous two hearings had drawn a standing-room audience.

The vote went along the expected lines, Committee members Maurice F. Healy, Jr., and John S. Mount voting against the ordinance because they prefer total restraint, and Committee members Thomas F. Cook and William Wilson and Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman voting in favor.

After the short public hearing and the vote, Mayor Fairman said that dog owners would be informed about the provisions of the new law as they obtained their dog licenses.

T. B. Fisher, 342 Snowden Lane, who has led a group of residents opposed to total restraint, commended the Township for the ordinance and said that with it, the problem at least came to be viewed "in proper perspective."

Mrs. Harold Crane, 15 Morgan Place, told Committee she did not think the ordinance changed anything, and asked what rights a property owner had if dogs ran through a yard and destroyed trees and plants.

Mr. Cook said it would be the job of the dog-catcher to spend considerable time in trouble-spots catching dogs who were trespassing.

"We hope to identify the roaming dogs over a period of time," Mayor Fairman explained, "and notify their owners to keep them at home."

To Post Land? From the other side of the fence, Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand White of Mercer Road protested that the ordinance was too strict and asked what would happen to a watch-dog that bit a burglar. The Whites were told that defensive bites wouldn't be counted against a dog.

"I've allowed boys to fish in Stony Brook from my property for years," Mr. White said, "but if this ordinance goes into effect and I face the risk of a dog being picked up for biting a boy I'm going to prohibit fishing from my land and call in Township police to keep people off."

In response to a question about cost, Administrator Joseph Nini said he thought the ordinance might cost $8-10,000 annually for a dog catcher, a truck and the maintenance of a shelter and $6-8,000 if shelter space were rented from a veterinarian.

He said the anticipated revenue from the new $3 license fee would be $3,000, leaving about $3-4,000 minimum to be absorbed by the Township if the municipality had to go it alone, without financial help from the Borough. He said construction of a shelter could be $3,500 or $25,000.

The Why of "No." Before the vote, Mr. Healy attacked the ordinance as "impractical, illogical and unenforceable," and said that although children would be protected because dogs are to be kept off school playgrounds, they would be exposed the minute they left school because dogs are permitted on public streets.

Prefacing his comments by saying that he had never before felt so strongly about an ordinance, Mr. Mount said that the measure was a middle ground between "there is a problem and there isn't a problem." He urged an amendment providing for review in one year, but this never came to a vote.

Mr. Wilson, who voted for the ordinance, said he would freely admit his error if the dog situation seemed to prove the ordinance wrong, and said it might be necessary for Committee to reconsider at a later date.

TRAFFIC LIGHT ASKED
On Bayard Lane, Residents of the western end of the Borough appealed to the Mayor and Council on Tuesday for a traffic light at Bayard Lane and Avalon Place.

Mrs. David W. Blair of 146

Hodge Road and Mrs. Stanton Waterman of 16 Hunter Road cited perilous conditions for both adults and school children who cross Bayard Lane at either Avalon Place or Nassau Street.

Their appeal was reinforced by letters from Mrs. Howard Waxwood on behalf of the directors of the YWCA and from Miss Shirley Davis, headmistress of Miss Fine's School.

Others appearing included Mrs. Stuart Duncan, 14 Elm Road; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Roberts, 32 Hodge Road; Mrs. John McLaughlin, Mrs. Donald S. Wert, Hopewell-Pennington Road; Frederick Lawrence, 177 Library Place; Mrs. Abbridge C. Smith 3rd, 62 Hodge Road; and Miss Milla Gibbons of 180 Nassau Street.

"We Tried." Mayor S. Patterson told the group that the Borough had petitioned the State Highway Department last year for a traffic light at the intersection. The Borough had stated its willingness to shoulder all costs of the installation.

The request had been denied on the grounds that the traffic count did not warrant a light.

"The traffic count arrived after 9 and left at 4," said Mrs. Smith.

The mayor commented that a policeman is on duty at Bayard Lane and Avalon Place from 8 to 8:30 a.m.

"Too Dangerous," Mrs. Wert asked whether a crossing guard could be posted at the corner at 3 p.m. "It's too dangerous at that corner, even for a policeman," interposed Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan. "You have to be plenty agile there. You have two lanes coming at you, turns, north and south traffic. It's a very dangerous intersection."

Magistrate Theodore Tams, who also serves as chairman of the Borough Traffic Safety Committee, told the residents, "Every denial by the state is buttressed on the fact that the state's primary consideration is to get traffic through Princeton. The state will claim a light will allow traffic down Mr. Roberts said, "If you

Try Again. "The circumstances have changed since our petition," said Councilman Elwood W. Godfrey. "I think we should do it again. There is the occupation of ETS property which creates traffic on Cleveland Lane and Dodge Lane. The traffic count might be different."

Councilman Albert A. Austin then moved that, as six members of the Safety Committee were present, Council recommend prompt action by the Committee towards getting the light installed. The motion passed.

The mayor delegated to the residents the responsibility for taking a pedestrian traffic count at the corner. Borough Engineer Arthur T. Brokaw volunteered to instruct the women. The pedestrian count will be used as an affidavit to the Borough's second petition to the state.

NO TRUANTS

Schools have 4,459. Opening day of school last Thursday found Borough and Township systems brimming with youngsters.

In the Township, Dr. John McKenna reported 1,958 boys and girls as of this Tuesday—32 more than the 1,916 who showed up on opening day.

"This figure is 100 ahead of our population predictions," said Dr. McKenna, "in fact it's the figure predicted for 1964. This means that in 1964, we probably have 2,400 students. The five schools we have now can just handle 2,400, so we're not two years, we're going to have to plan for more space, probably in the form of additions to Riverside or Johnson Park."

In 1961 there were 1,705 boys and girls in Township schools on opening day. The additional 263 now in residence are distributed generally over all five schools. Dr. McKenna said; however, another Community Park kindergarten session has been set up (state law does not allow more than 50 in a session and there were 61 at Community Park and 55 in a class at Riverside) and there is "pressure" in some primary classes at Littlebrook and Community Park.

In Short...

September's rule:
Sunny and cool.
—WEATHER, MAN

It's still quite a ways to the first frost, but early risers these days will tell you that temperatures are definitely moving downward. Last week in outlying areas, there was one reading of 43.

The "sunny" part of the forecast is also much in evidence. Might be a shower or two along about Friday, the Man reported, but the weekend figures to be generally fair.

Borough. "Things went very smoothly on opening day," commented Dr. Chester R. Stroup, Borough superintendent, "and our predictions about population seem to be holding."

In Dr. Stroup's Borough system, there are now 2,491 boys and girls in three schools. The breakdown according to expectation and fulfillment in both Borough and Township.

TO SING CHINESE SONGS
At McCarter, Anita Lee Mixson, young Chinese singer who lives in Princeton, will sing a group of Chinese folk songs as part of the program to be presented in McCarter on September 22 as "Highlights of the Chinese Performing Arts."

The program will begin at 7:30. Proceeds will go to a clinic in Hong Kong which is operated for the benefit of refugees from China.

For her part in the program, Mrs. Mixson will sing a folk song of central China, "Flower Drum of Pong Yang," "Song of the Unconquerable Bird," "Youth Is Like a Little Bird," which is a song from western China, "Song of an Orphan," "Sehsuich" and "Mountain in the Misty Realm of Myth." A native of Canton, Mrs. Mixson came to the United States in 1936 from Formosa where she had been united in the Shilling Methodist Church, the church attached to General and Mrs. Chiang Kai-shek. She has studied music at Westminster Choir College and the Juilliard School, receiving her Master of Music at Westminster in 1960.

In addition to the songs by Mrs. Mixson, the program will include a Chinese grand opera performed by the Hu Opera

LOLITA DOLL: Sue Lyons plays the 12-year-old nymph in "Lolita" now at the Prince. Also starred are James Mason, Shelley Winters and Peter Sellers.

Company of New York. Mrs. Tung's Classical Dance Company of New York and a parade of Chinese costumes modeled by Chinese girls who live in the Princeton area.

GUERARD JOINS SOCIETY
Ballet Russe Dancer, Roland Guerard, for many years a leading dancer with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Opus 38, by Cilea.

Other artists scheduled for the series are Herbert Rogers, pianist on September 23; Sonya Monosoff, violinist and Igor Kopyts, harpsichordist on October 7; William Clauson, tenor who sings with lute and guitar, October 14.

Nelson and Neal, two-piano team, October 21; John Langstaff, baritone, October 28; Sylvia Glickmann, pianist, Dorothy Hodge Polk, violinist on November 11; William Keyes, baritone, November 25; Guy Lumia, violinist, David Everhart, cellist and Herbert Rogers, pianist on December 2.

Information about tickets may be obtained by writing to New Hope Music Series, New Hope, Pennsylvania.

Mr. Guerard danced with the Ballet Russe during the '30s when the group was at the peak of its form. The dance critic of the New York "Times," writing of Mr. Guerard in March, 1935, said of him: "As a classic dancer, Mr. Guerard has everything in his favor. Not only has he an excellent technical equipment, but his appearance is agreeable and his personality ingratiating. His dancing shows a natural flair for style and an instinctive feeling for line."

One British critic has written: "There is no one today who dances this touchstone of classical virtuosity the Blue Bird variation with greater purity and brilliance."

After 15 years of teaching in their own school near Hottelton, the Guerards have settled in Hopewell with their four children, the oldest of whom, Michael, teaches engineering graphics at Princeton.

Margaret Sinclair will rejoin the Ballet Society this year, and Peter Hamilton will again teach courses in modern jazz dancing. He has choreographed for Triangle Club for the past several years, and has in addition, done the choreography for more than 50 Broadway and off-Broadway shows.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Big Red and The Living Desert (Today thru Saturday) are two Walt Disney Features which the entire family should enjoy. "Big Red" introduces an appealing young actor, Gilles Pajant, who portrays a 14-year-old French-Canadian boy. The story centers on his friendship with the champion Irish setter, "Big Red."

Gilles is a wandering waif who goes to work for a wealthy sportsman, sympathetically played by Walter Pidgeon. When the boy disobeys orders not to see Big Red while the dog is in training for a show, Big Red jumps through a window to be with him and is severely injured. Many tribulations follow, excitingly enacted.

"The Living Desert" is another in the fabulous nature series Disney is putting together. The photography, in color, is magnificent. Comment: Two good ones.

Birdman of Alcatraz (Sept.

P.S.
Fathers welcome!

16-18) The usual prison film concentrates on riots and "breaks"; this one centers on the psychological aspects of prison life.

Burt Lancaster gives a competent performance as Robert Stroud, who, in real life, has spent 35 years behind bars, 43 of them in solitary. The film implicitly pleads for the release of Stroud, now 72 years old, on the grounds that he had been rehabilitated and paid his debt to society for the two murders he has committed.

The action centers on his sharp personal conflict with Karl Malden, as a warden who feuds with him not only over keeping birds in his cell but never the U.S. penal system. Then there's Thelma Ritter, as Stroud's mother, who first fights for her son's freedom and later deserts him. The scenes involving Stroud and his birds are utterly fascinating. Comment: Off-beat prison film.

Damn the Defiant (opens Sept. 19) is based on the novel, "Mutiny," by Frank Tilley.

The memorable "Sink the Bismarck" of several years ago was the first time John Brahm and Lewis Gilbert, the producer and director, teamed on a film. This second effort is equally unusual and exciting.

Alec Guinness and Dirk Bogarde are in the leading roles. The action takes place on the high seas, late in the 18th century. The plot centers on two themes: the fight for decent living conditions on the part of the seamen of the British Navy, and the bitter enmity which develops between a humane and sympathetic captain, Guinness, and his brutal, sadistic first officer, well played by Bogarde. The bitterness of men and officers of H.M.S. "Defiant" and the sea battles with the French, particularly the hand-to-hand combat scenes, give plenty of suspense and action. Comment: a sure delight for all lovers of high adventure.

THE GARDEN

A Coming Out Party (Today thru Tues. stars bulky James Robertson Justice as a V.I.P., British scientist in World War II who escapes from a German prison camp.

The story is told in flashback, whereby Justice is the intolent, brilliant and unapproachable "brain" who is the subject of a "This Is Your Life" sort of TV program as the film opens.

The British comic touch comes into its own in a series of hectic incidents in which Justice and two fellow prisoners impersonate visiting Swiss prison inspectors. Comment: Light, but entertaining.

THE PRINCE

Lolita (today thru Sat.) N.Y.-clad Vladimir Nizhkov wrote the screen adaption of his best senior "Lolita," but his play is merely a shadow of the book. Lolita, the willing 12-year-old corrupted by a middle-aged European, is played by Sue Lyon; James Mason is the seducer.

Shelley Winters portrays Lolita's widowed mother who marries Mason and later conveniently dies. Peter Sellers as Clare Quilty provides a little life to the movie. Comment: two and one-half hours can be a long, long time.

Boys' Night Out (Sept. 16-18) is enjoyable light entertainment, providing you don't set your sights too high. In a merry sort of way, the plot and gag lines poke rather merciless fun at the simple pleasures of married life in the suburbs.

Communing and drinking pals James Garner, Tony Randall, Howard Morris and Howard Duff decide on their weekly Thursday night outing in New York to rent and share an apartment with a built-in blonde. The blonde is Kim Novak.

The emphasis is laughs rather than leers. Other performers include Janet Blair, Anne Jeffreys, Patti Page, Jessie Royce Landis and William Bendix. Comment: comedy of morals.

To Us

TAKE A NEW LOOK

At A Newcomer Or Two. Shoppers who start out this fall to see what the new season has brought to town will find lots of new perspectives, new faces and new things to see.

Viking Furniture, which used to be on Route 33, has moved to permanent quarters in Princeton, and Zinder's, which is an old friend of many years' standing on Nassau Street, has come out with a 1963 model store, to sleek you'll hardly recognize it, and Bellows has added to its women's clothing collection a group of awesome names like Cassini and Chapman and Berin.

Viking is now in the former Silverster Motors (also former Princeton Players) building on Nassau Street between Olden and Murray at number 239. You can easily identify the furniture store by the four flags flying from its roof, and the all-white paint job on the front. These are real flags.

by the way, representing Denmark, Norway, Sweden and the U. S., and they will come in each day at sundown, in compliance with the law.)

Well, Viking now has considerably more space than it had before, and it has taken advantage of the additional square footage to offer some new benefits to the customer. The first of these is the full-time presence of Carolyn Henshaw, a decorator with a membership card in A.I.D. B. S. diploma in design from the University of Michigan, and considerable experience in decoration with two firms in Ann Arbor, Michigan, for whom she executed interiors in modern, Colonial or traditional modes, working closely with architects and artists.

Mrs. Henshaw has come to Viking for you, the customer, as you have already guessed. She will help you pick out a single lamp, or she will work with you to re-design an entire series of rooms, making those sketches which are so much more helpful to a bewildered housewife than just a skeletal floor plan. She does this because she believes that, if you are going to the expense of doing over an entire room, you deserve to see exactly what it's going to look like.

If you are going to buy, let us say, a chest or a chair, she will go to your house, look at the place where the chest is to be, and advise you on scale, placement and accessories.

Incidentally, accessories will be a big part of Mrs. Henshaw's work with clients, and Viking will carry candlesticks, sculpture, original ceramics, dishes and tapestries—everything but the cigarette butt. The decorator is an expert who believes in following her client's tastes (although she will advise, delicately, on what color goes with whom), because she believes that the room, when it is finished, should be the client's room, and not the decorator's.

For Little Ones

What they do on those long winter nights in Scandinavia is immediately apparent to the visitor who examines Viking's new puzzle—whatnot-accessory collection.

We particularly like Cubus Rebus, a cubed wooden puzzle we cannot even work, much less describe, and a 10-inch high figure who introduced himself as Senor Kahluha. He has wavy hair and a distrustful expression, but after all, he's new in town.

His fellow traveler is a seven-inch cone of a man all these figures are in wood, you understand with an unlikely sombrero and lecherous eyes.

Viking will also show you a small block of wood with neatly circular gouges here and there, each one a different size. With this puzzle, you get a squat, incredibly heavy cylinder of stainless steel. What's my line? A nutcracker.

Place the nut in the depression that fits it best and hit the scalp off it with that steel mallet. The fallout from breaking shells is said to be considerable.

Another benefit which Viking can provide, now that it has more room, is a fabric corner. Here, you may finger the lacy woollen drapery fabrics from Scandinavia, the drawn-work linen that makes such exciting curtains, or the homespun to use on a fine piece of Danish furniture.

Place the nut in the depression that fits it best and hit the scalp off it with that steel mallet. The fallout from breaking shells is said to be considerable.

The backbone of Viking is the splendid collection of modern Scandinavian pieces, like the Dux rocker, tall enough to rest a weary head, capacious enough for the broadest full-back, with a mechanism that locks the matching ottoman if you want these feet up and astant.

Another chair, called an "egg chair," looks like a trimmed down wing chair, and still another (this one from Italy) looks like a mad pretzel with its bentwood rocker soles.

For a man's den, Viking suggests a teak campaign chair with a black leather strap for an arm, and mouse-colored suede leather for the back, seat and cushion.

Customers with small quarters (dollars don't count) will appreciate a little teak hall table with two sliding doors, two little drawers and overall dimensions of 12-24 inches. A telephone wall desk of teak is even smaller: 10 by 15.

Rugs and carpets will be featured at Viking, with the accent on accent rugs. We liked a Greek high-pile wool rug (shaggy, to you made unwieldy, for some Hellenic reason, and presented to Viking in bright mustard or natural oyster white. It's 4x6 feet.

Anton Maix fabrics, to frame, are the special pride of Viking. These non-objective designs in silk or linen are as worthy of a place on your wall as a fine painting, although your own individual taste may lean toward the Scandinavian tapestries, also in abstract design, which Viking has on view.

Vote "Yes" September 25.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Nassau Street and Williams School served my children well, but I was not unaware of traffic hazards on Princeton's main street, less than ideal playground areas, crowded cafeterias, and unfulfilled educational dreams
because of space limitations.
It will therefore give me
deep satisfaction on September 25 to vote in favor of the Borough School Board's proposal to buy land adjoining the High School. This purchase will enable the Borough to build in a strategic location, at little or no cost to the taxpayer, a modern educational center to replace the present elementary schools.
Should the Borough and Township decide to consolidate, the proposed location would still be the best possible for a school, in view of population distribution. Thus,
with or without consolidation,
a modern school on this site will best meet the needs of a long-range plan for the whole community.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
We are delighted to learn that prior to the publication of our recent letter, the Bor-

We wish to make it clear property. Additional land is certainly needed for public educational purposes in the community. However, we reaffirm our position that new school construction should await the formulation of a coordinated plan for the future development of the schools of Princeton.

But Step Inside, Too. If you've been away all summer,
you may not recognize Zin-der's. The stationery and toy store which has been in its Nassau Street location for 18 years is frisky as any new comer these days, showing with pride its newly carpeted white-painted storefront, and its re-designed interior.
Although the store remains about the same size, even with those remodeled windows, it has more "walking room" because of the relocation of counters. All of the walls under the new Jones ceiling, fire-resistant, sound resistant, etc., are now yellow pegboard, an installation which allows complete flexibility of display. At the moment, briefcases are hanging from the wall by the door. In a few weeks, Halloween marks will be arranged

there later on Santa Clauses.
But what of the stock? Well, you'll find 100 square feet
more of model airplanes; 500
square feet devoted to dolls;
a 60-foot rack to hold all the Hallmark and Gibson cards, with 18 feet of this turned over to contemporary Studio cards.

Those party decorations
you've always bought at Zin-der's "paper plates that can be used across the room after the birthday cake has been eaten, paper cloths to catch the candle-wax, napkins to wrap up the candy in (on the way home)
now take up 75 square feet of space, which is a lot of goods in addition, there is a sporting goods rack, heavy with baseball mitts, football equipment and basketball gear as the seasons march, and a greatly expanded rack of paperback books (more than double, by the way).

Games are now arranged
face out for better visibility,
and any number can play.
There are four long racks of games, hemmed by shelves top and bottom.
Stationery is now serve-voiced . . . children's books, Hardy Boys Landmark, have outgrown their breeches, and are in new and bigger shelves.
Playbook, Holgate and other nursery toys are more plentiful than before, and easier to find.
And over all, as they say, is a new fluorescent light structure which makes all visible to all. It's a cheerful, pleasant store, and we think you'll enjoy a browse.

MAKE MINE CASSINI
But That Chapman . . . Oleg Cassini, usually associated with Pennsylvania Avenue comes to Nassau Street with a collection of dresses addressed to Bellows, and matched only by the dresses sent from Mr.
Cassini's competitors (Cie)
Chapman, Harvey Berin and Hannah Troy.

Beginning with Mr. C., we find a cold wool crepe as simple and artful as anything you'll find on any rack. Designed with a small, round fold-over collar, it has four closely spaced self buttons, two on each side of a flat on-inch tuck that defines the bodice front and then goes around to make a high, almost Empire back. There is a belt but no buckle, that's how simple things are done. $100.

Another Cassini is Capri
blue (or wood violet) orlon knit with long, tight sleeves which you enter and lock behind you by means of a tiny thimble-like buckle. The fold-over collar fastens the same way, all toward the shoulder.
$90.

A double knit has a mock wrap front, cinched waistline and very deep butterfly three-quarter sleeves. No collar $100.

Chapman sends along a black with her characteristic folds (this one done with a stand-away neckline, drapery across a high bosom and a princess line from there on).
Another black has a wide,

necked-front with an illusion back that looks bare but is actually protected from wind and weather by a spider-web of black net. The dress itself leans away from the body, but the net lies flat against the skin.
Chapman has another dress
that has a widely scooped neckline dug out from shoulder to shoulder, but not cut too deeply in between. Drapery, again, is folded across the bodice. There is a gentle back belt marking the waist of this black matelasse crepe and gathered sleeves.

But it's not always black.
Look at Chapman's raspberry silk satin with its one-inch band curving across shoulders and neckline to make straps and bodice band. There is a scoop back and a bow set pro-

Student Housing Needed

Princeton University this week appealed to residents of surrounding communities to help house graduate students and members of the University's faculty and staff who will arrive soon for the beginning of the fall term on Monday, September 24.

The Graduate School enrollment is estimated at 975, highest in history. This figure does not include some 12 visiting fellows and students—scholars—who are not candidates for degrees—who must also find housing.

University housing facilities are already exhausted. The waiting list contains 166 single applicants and a number of families. Princeton area residents who have rooms or apartments to rent have been asked to write the University's Real Estate Department, 92-A Nassau Street, with a description of the premises and location, the amount of rental and any other appropriate information.

It's New To Us

vocally on one shoulder $110.

Harvey Berlin's is an English worsted "China silk for lining" with a relaxed look to the skirt and slash pockets in the seams. The belt seems to disappear through the waistline seam but actually emerges again to cross the back. Four small buttons define the neck.

From Hannah Troy, Bellows presents a heavy black silk crepe, minutely ribbed, with a hem band of fringed black rosettes set petal-to-petal all around the skirt.

Moving away from the designer's collection, we find at Bellows a fascinating group of suede leather clothes for fall, colors right out of Sherwood Forest, designs right out of today. There are sheaths cut with various ideas in mind, a collarless jacket with slant pockets and wooden buttons, and a classic jacket with lapels.

There is a splendid narrow skirt in bitter-sweet orange, and a three-piece outfit in soft aqua with straight skirt, pop-over and deeply collared jacket. Dresses are $50-$70, the skirt is $35.

This Is Princeton

dops were attacking sheep in the northwestern corner, and woodlots were growing untended off Valley Road. Today the farms are sown with split-levels and the Township with problems.

Princeton institutions have grown with the town. There is an accredited hospital in the state of continuous expansion, two school systems in the educational system, a top-notch volunteer fire department, in case of fire, rail police, Borough W. 4-414 Township WA 4-3105. And incidentally, that horn and silencing sound on each Wednesday noon from the three firehouses, are testing, just testing.

There is great concern today will be more evident as autumn advances, because the town still tends to snooze during the summer. About "Keeping Princeton PRINCE-TON" What about letting in graduate creep?" What kind of growth should be allowed? Should the whole town be made to look Colonial?

And often the most vocal supporters of "Keeping Princeton just as it always has been" are the newcomers.

ROUND-UP

The New York Giants-Philadelphia Eagles football game Saturday created what police feel was the biggest traffic jam in the community's history. The reason becomes obvious when it is pointed out that contrary to college football weekends, when many out-of-town spectators arrive Friday, virtually everyone bent on seeing the pros played gauged its arrival for the o'clock kickoff. And there were, of course, no special trains.

Traffic slow-downs began as far away as Somerville, at the Hightstown exit of the New Jersey Turnpike, and on the Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, they were virtually bumper-to-bumper for five miles. An additional problem was the fact that, in contrast to normal fall games, many of those driving to Princeton had no idea of where Palmer Stadium was located. Borough and Township police accomplished much by directing cars to side roads leading to the Stadium, but several minutes after the second quarter had started, latecomers were still filing in.

Thieves at work 20 loaves of bread taken from Davidson's Market . . . $50 from the cash register of The Country Mouse . . . $100 worth of construction materials from the branch being built by the First National Bank at 368 Nassau Street. . . And a car owned by a nurse at Merwick, who was unaware it was missing until police told her it had been stolen . . . the news was worse for Mrs. Nellie Grover, 233 Fisher Place, Penns Neck, because the thief collided with another car in Trenton, then ran smack into the side of the Mercer County jail . . . her car burst into flames and was a total loss . . . the culprit escaped.

Rainfall tapered off considerably last week, no more than a tenth of an inch being recorded, two readings in the 80's (Monday and Saturday) were the week's highs, while outlying areas reported a low

Miss Virginia Bennett, daughter of Mr. H. L. Bennett of Kingston, leaves this Thursday for two years of graduate study in Paris at the Sorbonne's Institute of Oriental Languages. A graduate of the Princeton College of the Sacred Heart, where she majored in Russian, Miss Bennett plans to continue the study of Russian and to live with a Russian emigre family of 45 last Thursday and another of 43 on Friday. The yellow streaks that annually herald the approach of Indian Summer are out in force, and Princeton Hospital reported numerous treatments for bee stings . . . the roughest experience was that of Jack Rimalover, 175 Hun Road, who developed an allergy after being stung ten times.

Five Princeton area residents are members of the September grand jury, seated this week in Trenton: Mrs. Barbara C. Donaldson, 162 Library Place; Miss Elizabeth Blackwell, 21 North Main Street, Pennington; Mrs. Charlotte S. Farley, 192 Varsity Avenue, Penns Neck; Albert M. Lippmann, Cranbury Road, West Windsor; and Edward W. Gross, 19 East Delaware Avenue, Pennington.

Mrs. Lannie Hollyfield of 160 Mercer Street was bitten on the thigh by a dog owned by Mrs. M. C. Baker, 142 Mercer, requiring hospital treatment.

Kindergarten teachers have learned to be prepared for a wide variety of experiences with their five-year olds. One, who supervises that age bracket at Littlebrook, remarked to a parent, "Last year, I had a little boy who read 'The New York Times'."

The Indian's not-vanishing note: intelligence passed along by the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development: in 1648, the State Indian population was 2,000; today, it is still as high as 1,700.

CHARGES DENIED
By School Board Head. Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Board of Education, called a special press conference Friday to refute charges made by the Township Board.

"The Township decides to go ahead, and we become the whipping boys," Mr. Rohrer said in citing Borough efforts to cooperate with the Township.

The Township board issued a statement several weeks ago: "The Borough Board of Education has not seen its way clear to join us in an immediate study of merger, nor has it been willing to join with us in planning the present comprehensive study as a community-wide affair."

Mr. Rohrer disputes this. "We are not standing in the way of any study of consolidation of the schools. We participated on a 50-50 basis with the Township on the Rutgers report of several years ago. The Report was discredited by some on grounds that it did not explore in depth the educational advantages of consolidation. There were recognized authorities making the study, and they found that there would be no educational advantages accruing." He added that a joint committee of both boards supervised the study.

"Since then, there has been a move for a second study and as a result of discussions, the Borough board developed a plan for study of consolidation last May. On May 14 we met with Richard Pearson, chairman of the Township Board and discussed it. The Township rejected it, essentially for timing."

Mr. Rohrer said the plan proposed that committees from both boards study the problem this fall and outline the kind of study wanted and the subjects to be included. The school election ballot in February 1963 would ask the taxpayers whether they want to authorize the expenditure of public funds for a second study.

If the vote is affirmative, an outside committee would make the study. Late in 1963, or not later than the 1964 school elections, the study would be resubmitted. "This proposal was vetoed by the Township Board," Mr. Rohrer said, "although it had been well received by Pearson."

The Borough Board of Education, Mr. Rohrer said, made a new proposal to the Township, in which it agreed to work with the township on consolidation or separation as part of the total study. "There are three things involved in consolidation," Mr. Rohrer continued, "the dollar value over at least a ten-year projection, control of the new — continued on Page 12

THAT HELPING HAND: The homemaker is never more valued than when she is away, perhaps convalescing upstairs, and when she is missing, there is always the helping hand of a professional homemaker from the Homemaker Service to feed the children and cook the father's dinner, and get everybody off to school and work the next morning. Here, Mrs. Magdalene Eddy shows how needed a Homemaker can really be. The Homemaker Service is supported by contributions to the United Fund-Red Cross combined campaign.

district and educational cost.
"As a collateral fact, I personally believe that people, however well-meaning, who through letters to the public press imply a breakdown in relationship are doing a great disservice and are, in fact, contributing more to such breakdown than anything that has occurred between the two boards."

REALTORS DISSENT
At Housing Hearing, The Borough's plan to adopt the state housing code drew strong protests from realtors at Tuesday's public hearing.
Although the realtors approved the code in general, they disputed sections 10 and 11 which concern conformance with the housing code prior to occupancy and require the issuance of a certificate by the Borough Health Officer stating that a residence complies with the code.

"If this code is taken by the letter and fully enforced," said Edmund D. Cook, "many changes are going to have to be made. This is a stringent code."
"I think that in this code you have the cart before the horse. The ordinance assumes all property is in violation of the code. If you take the attitude that every property meets the code, until such time as the Health Officer inspects and finds violations, then I think you would be coming out with some purpose."

He disputed the fine of $200 or 90 days in jail, and stated that "we all have many properties which do not meet this code."

Section 10 states: No person shall occupy as owner or occupant, or rent to another for occupancy, any building or part thereof for human habitation or use which does not conform to the provisions of said "New Jersey State Housing Code."

Section 11: No owner of any building or part thereof used, or intended to be used for human habitation or occupancy or use, shall sell, transfer, grant, lease, rent, let or otherwise dispose of the same to another until a certificate shall first have been obtained from the Health Officer stating that the same complies with the requirements of the "New Jersey State Housing Code."

The realtors protested that these conditions would hold up real estate transactions and questioned the right of a health officer or any public officer to delay sale of property. Among those appearing were Ridgely W. Cook, Shaw Livermore, Bryan Moore, Benjamin Kahn, Robert E. Dougherty, spokesman for the real estate division of the Chamber of Commerce, and Fred English, a representative of the Residents of Princeton.

The ordinance covering the housing code was tabled, pending further study. Mayor Patterson appointed a committee composed of Council President William J. Moore, Councilman Alan Carriek, David Blake, health officer; Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney, Mr. English and Mr. Dougherty to consider the ordinance, which will be presented again at the October meeting.

Bike Riding Controlled. The "Bike Riding" ordinance passed without a dissenting voice. Mrs. D. Barton Stevens, president of the Elementary School PTA, reported to the mayor and council on the simplified statement of the ruling drawn up by her committee for the benefit of the school children.
Borough Magistrate Theodore Tams and School Superintendent Chester E. Stroup commented in favor of the ordinance, which now goes to the New Jersey Motor Vehicle Department for approval.

The mayor told the PTA that —Continued on Page 14

VIKING Furniture has moved to Princeton, New Jersey, and will open to the public on Saturday, September 15, at 10 a.m. From Sweden, Denmark, Finland and Norway, we bring a complete line of fine furniture in the true SCANDINAVIAN tradition, styled by designers Finn Juhl, Hans Wegner and Folke Ohlsson. Lending accent to our teak, rosewood, oak and walnut furniture, we feature Akori lamps from Japan, vividly colored; thick piled rugs from Greece and India, and a complete line of accessories and draperies from Denmark. For the past thirty days we have been moving from our location in Hamilton Square to our present location, 259 Nassau Street. Following in the footsteps of the pioneering Viking, we have transformed an abandoned garage into what we consider the only Scandinavian showroom in this area — one you will find particularly unique. We would like on opportunity to meet our new neighbors so we cordially invite you to stop in and browse or discuss your individual interior decoration problems with our professional staff. Our store hours are from 9:30 to 5:30 daily, Thursday and Friday evenings until 9. Free parking at our door.

will discuss the development of the orchestra. Mr. Bailey will return on November 29 to lecture on piano music and opera in the 19th century, from Chopin to Wagner.

For those who are unable to attend the whole series, individual admissions will be available at $1 per person.

OPEN HOUSE PLANNED

At Library, Princeton Teachers and school librarians have been invited to attend the third annual open house of the Public Library Thursday from 3 to 6 p.m. New books dealing with a wide range of subjects for all age levels will be displayed.

The purpose of the open house is to promote communication and exchange of materials and facilities between the library and the schools. This fall the library will begin circulating a series of films suitable for classroom use.

FIVE CLINICS SCHEDULED

At Princeton Hospital, Free eye clinics will be held at Princeton Hospital during the week of September 23 as part of a state-wide program sponsored by the Medical Society of New Jersey through its committee on the conservation of vision.

Clinics are scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, September 24 and 25, from noon to 2 p.m. and on Wednesday evening, September 26, from 7 to 9. They will be held in the hospital's Outpatient Department, Dr. Henry Abrams, chief of the hospital's Ophthalmology Section, will have charge of the program. He will be assisted by Dr. E. Frederick Laschever and Dr. Louis Rampon-na.

The purpose of the clinics is to detect evidence of eye disease such as glaucoma, cataract, or of any general disease reflected in the condition of the eyes, which should have treatment or follow-up by a physician. The clinics are open to all those over 35 who are not already receiving ophthalmological care.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

For Scouting Program. Volunteers who will serve as troop leaders, assistant leaders and Borough neighborhood chairmen are being sought by the Princeton Girl Scout Council.
Mrs. D. R. Ellis, Jr., field
vice president, said interested women should contact her or the Girl Scout office at 4 Green Street. Training is provided by the Council and previous experience as a scout leader is not required.

A basic leadership training course for new leaders and assistants has been scheduled for the five Tuesday nights in October. Teachers will be Mrs.
Dudley Clark and Mrs. Richard Gilbert.

Mrs. Ellis said waiting lists are maintained in Princeton,
as they are in most communities, of girls wishing to participate in scouting for whom leadership is not yet available.

Ten Years Ago In Princeton

TOWN TOPICS, Sept. 11, 1932: Students at Princeton Country Day School got some bad news from Headmaster Henry B. Ross: a delay in completion of the summer building program would add five days to the vacation. Said the letter, properly geared to 9- to-14-year old readership:—

"We have a great deal of cleanup to do. We shall not need extra days to sweep up the plaster dust, untangle the electric wiring and get the mucky new paint dry so that nobody—not even one of the teachers—will fall through an unfinished ceiling or get stuck to the wall on opening day."

PCD enrollment, up 15% over the preceding fall, was at the highest in its 29-year history. Upwards of 140 boys would register for the new term.

Township Committee voted 2-0 to lift rent controls, Mayor Albert Salzman and Bertrand L. Colick, Jr., favoring the move. With Committeeman John H. Wallace Jr., absent... the governing body also announced a November referendum giving its residents the choice of approving payment to the Borough for use of the latter's library.

McCartier Theatre was booked for a novel event—the first fall flower show sponsored by the Stony Brook Garden Club... politics moved to the fore in this presidential year, and Citizens for Eisenhower and Nixon established temporary headquarters at 12 Library Place, urging an all-out registration campaign... The New Jersey Poll showed Independents in the state leaning to prefer the candidacy of Gen. Eisenhower, 46% saying they preferred him to the 38% backing Adlai Stevenson.

Arrangements were complete for the softball triple-header to be played at University Field, with Joe Baldino and Pete Nini named co-managers of the all-star American League team which would face the National League All-Stars, managed by Powell Garrison.

Pennsylvania was picked by TOWN TOPICS as the most difficult team for Princeton's football team to defeat that season—and a month later, the Quakers ended the Orange and Black's 24-game winning streak, ranking as the only opponent to top the Tigers in 1932.

The Junior Baseball League championship was won by the team sponsored by L. C. Bowers & Sons, coached by B. E. Bergesen. Members included Dick Knowles, Joe Allshouse, Tommy O'Kane, Ralph Pirone, Dave Britton, Bill Schwartz, Jim Thompson, Pete Smyth, Ray Cavers, Howard Phox, Ron Taylor, George Cramer and Richard Hall.

In the world of motion pictures, the Playhouse had booked "Monkey Business," starring Cary Grant, Ginger Rogers and Charles Coburn, while the Garden was keeping pace with early TV westerns in offering "The Duel At Silver Creek"... Group Arts was announcing plans for the first of a series of film classics to be given in McCosh 10... programs would include a series of Charlie Chaplin shorts "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" and Buster Keaton in "The Navigator."

Sunday sermons were announced by these ministers now no longer on the Princeton scene: the Rev. Milton J. Nais, Lutheran of the Messiah; the Rev. Dr. John R. Bodo, First Presbyterian; the Rev. John W. Johnson, Mount Pisgah A.M.E.; the Rev. Roland F. Chandler, Baptist at Penn Neck.

Sign of the Times: an employment agency was offering cooks for $40 to $45 a week and day's help at $1 an hour... A New Jersey nudist colony broke into the news when one of its residents suggested his fellow practitioners' way of life was a sure way to end war. Said he, "If soldiers wore no clothes, you'd never know who your enemy was."

The Girl Scout office will be open throughout the school year on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week from 10 a. m. to noon and 2 to 4 p. m. for information about registration of girls for Scouting.

LEAGUE TO BROADCAST Over WTTM.

"Viewpoint," a series of discussion programs sponsored and presented by the League of Women Voters, will begin this Sunday over station WTTM, Trenton, and will be heard each Sunday thereafter from 4:35 to 5 p. m. through June 9.

The first program will be "Can Atlantic Partnership and the U. N. Coexist?" with Mrs. William Duray, Mrs. Cary Peckles and Mrs. Joan Levinson of the Princeton League participating.

Subsequent topics to be discussed by the Princeton League will be "Issues in the New Jersey Congressional Elections," October 21 and "What's Wrong with Congress?" (November 11).

Juvenile delinquency and migrants will also be discussed in the course of the year. Other Leagues participating, besides the Princeton group, are Exwing, Hamilton, Trenton and Yardley-Morrisville.

The newest editor of "Know Your Town," the League handbook on Princeton, will be published later in September. Membership fees have been published for September 26, and the annual fund drive for the week of October 1.

ABSENTEES REMINDED

About Ballots. Mercer County Clerk William H. Fahey has reminded area residents that potential absentee voters in the November election must file applications for civilian absentee ballots eight days prior to election day, November 6.

Applications for military absentee ballots may be made until election day. All absentee ballots must be returned to the Mercer County Board of Elections not later than election day.

MRS. MEYNER TO SPEAK
 At PTA Meeting Mrs. Robert Meyer, wife of former Gov. Robert Meyer, will speak on a recent trip she and her husband made to Russia at the first fall meeting of the West Windsor Township Parent-Teacher Association. The meeting will be held Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the West Windsor School auditorium. The 1962-63 PTA budget will be presented and new teachers will be introduced. Mrs. Edward Poling is the PTA president for the coming year.

Other officers includes Mrs. E. L. Little, first vice-president and program chairman; Robert Frandsen, second vice-president and publications chairman; Mrs. E. W. Frey, recording secretary; Mrs. George Sichel, corresponding secretary; and Fred Froelich, treasurer.

ALUMNAE TO MEET

In Trenton The Trenton Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Kappa National Social Sorority will hold its first fall meeting on Saturday, September 22, at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Evelyn Spooner, 750 President Avenue, Trenton.

Miss Edith Bulow and Mrs. Donna Berger of the Philadelphia Chapter will speak on the recent Sigma Kappa national convention in Washington, D. C. Children's wearing apparel for the group's annual Christmas box should be brought to this meeting.

The newly-elected officers for the coming year are Mrs. Joan Miller, president; Mrs. Mary Jo Wagner, vice-president; Mrs. Spooner, secretary; and Mrs. Kathy Steinhauer, treasurer.

TEA PLANNED

For Goucher Students. The Goucher Club of Princeton will hold a tea for returning students and entering freshmen on Saturday at 3 in the home of Mrs. Earl L. Douglass, 41 Armour Road.

New students from the area are Mary Elizabeth Keegan and Martha Sichel of Princeton, Frances M. Lynn of North Brunswick and Carol Ann Simonson of Cranbury. Returning students are Georgianna Coyle, Nina Kriz and Dale Rose of Princeton, Mary Lou of Monmouth Junction and Elaine Christiansen of Cranbury.

Newly-elected officers of the Goucher Club are Mrs. Mathaniet McLean, president; Mrs. John P. McLusky, secretary; and Miss Natalie Vaughn, treasurer.

"FACING THE TEST"

ETS Releases Film. A film designed to prepare students for taking achievement tests has been produced by Educational Testing Service in association with the Georgia State Department of Education.

Called "Facing The Test," the 30-minute film explains test questions, shows how to choose the answer sheet and discusses the use of test results. It is designed to be useful to teachers and guidance counselors as well as students.

The film is the first of two being made by ETS and the Georgia Department of Education. The second, "What's The Score?," to help counselors and teachers interpret test results, will be ready in 1963.

CLERIC TO SPEAK

At PTA Meeting. The Rev. E. C. Henry will speak at the first fall meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of St. Paul's School on Tuesday at 8 p.m. to the school. Parents may confer with teachers in the classrooms from 7 to 8. Ten committee chairmen

Oldest Alumnae Named

The Rev. William H. Hudnut of Oceanville, N. Y., who is 98, has been designated the oldest living alumnus of Princeton University by the Alumni Council.

Mr. Hudnut is the fifth consecutive clergyman to hold this distinction. He succeeds the Rev. Henry Goldknish, who died July 30 at the age of 94. Mr. Hudnut was graduated with the Class of 1890.

Born in Brooklyn, Mr. Hudnut was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Youngstown, Ohio, for 30 years. He received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from Princeton in 1961. During the same ceremony his grandson, Stuart, was graduated with highest honors.

have been named for the coming year. They are Mrs. Robert Bancroft, Mrs. Santo Tocco, Mrs. Frank Zimmerman, Mrs. William Zimmerman, Mrs. Anthony Bannmar, Mrs. John Zeier, Mrs. Robert O'Connor, Robert McAvonia, Mrs. Joseph Reel and Mrs. Robert Schwenker. The PTA president is Mrs. Dalton Pritchard.

SCHEDULES CHANGE

At Inspection Stations. Motor vehicle inspection stations throughout the state will begin operating on fall and winter schedules Monday. They will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 8 to 5 and those having night hours will stay open until 9.

Ten stations in metropolitan North Jersey will be open six days a week. These stations are located in Hackensack, Lodi, Plainfield, Rahway, Ridgewood, Newark, Union Drive-In, Union City, Wayne and Westfield. The operation was expanded at these ten stations to handle the increasing number of registered vehicles.

PRESIDENTS MEET

To Choose Nominees. Past presidents of the New York-New Jersey Metropolitan Chapter of the American Public Works Association met Wednesday at the Princeton Inn to select nominees for office for the coming year.

Chairman of the nominating committee was Arthur T. Brokaw, Borough engineer. Mr. Brokaw was the group's president during the past year. Elections will be Tuesday at the Chapter's fall meeting in Valley Stream, N. Y.

PLAYSHOP EXPLAINED

In Magazine Article. Miss Elizabeth Hall, director of the Music Playhouse at the New School for Music Study, 552 Nassau Street, has written a magazine article, explaining the school's unique Playshop.

The article appeared in the "Piano Teacher Magazine." It was prompted by an article in "Parents Magazine" by another Princetonian, Mrs. Robert Kraft. In it, Mrs. Kraft had mentioned the Playshop in which one of her sons had been enrolled.

The Playshop is a music-readiness program for 4-6 year-olds that was introduced two years ago at the New School. Since the appearance of Mrs. Kraft's article, the school has been harassed with questions from parents and teachers across the country. Miss Hall replied.

NEW LIFE UP NORTH
 For Two Negro Students.
 "I've never been in an integrated school before and I like it—everybody is so nice!"
 Pat Baker, 16, is a chunky, chubby Princeton High School junior who came to Princeton two weeks ago from Georgia as a member of the Southern Negro Student Project sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. The Project, now in its third year, is designed to free promising Negro boys and girls from the restrictions of segregated high school education in the south and bring them to northern schools where they can be prepared for admission to colleges with high entrance standards.

This year, there are two such students at Princeton High. The other is Oscar Beard, a solid, handsome 15-year-old from Birmingham, who is, like Pat, in his junior year. Both Pat and Oscar will complete their last two years at Princeton High School, filling in next summer with work or additional courses, "depending."

So Much Learning! Oscar has joined the family of Mr. and Mrs. Kees Bol, Cherry Hill Road, Hopewell, and Pat is living with Mr. and Mrs. Loren Johnston, 101 Overbrook Drive.

An articulate young man, self-possessed beyond his years, Oscar is impressed by the academic offerings at Princeton High School.

"There is so much here that was not offered at the school I came from in Birmingham," he says, "more languages, more extra-curricular activities. Although my former school did have fine courses in science and math."

Everyone seems to be so interested in learning," Oscar observes, "and this was not so true in the school I used to attend."
 Oscar is taking second year algebra, physics, English, first-year American history and French. He has also taken his alto sax into the school's Symphonetta Band. Math is his favorite subject, and he hopes to use it in some sort of engineering career, but music is a strong second.

Hopes for Research. Pat is a potential mathematician, too, and would like to do research. "Not teach, oh, no!" she laughs. She is taking physics, geometry, second-year American history, English and second-year Spanish, and she hopes to add to her Spanish and to "my very little French" with more languages.

In answer to a comment about her academic load, Pat replied, "Well, it's an academic load of books, all right! You should see all those books I have to carry!" She turned to Oscar, who is not in any of her classes and remarked, "Hey, I finally found my locker."

"I had a confusion about finding my locker one afternoon," she explained, with a chuckle.

High Calibre. Boys and girls who are chosen for the student project come from the best of southern Negro high school classes. Both Pat and Oscar are the children of ministers. Oscar's father, who is no longer living, was a Baptist minister and Pat's is a Methodist. She

"WE LIKE IT HERE": These two southern high school students are enjoying the easy friendliness of a northern integrated school as juniors at Princeton High. Oscar Beard, who comes from Birmingham, is the guest in a rural home, and he finds the country quiet hard to get used to after diesel trucks. Pat Baker enjoys Mrs. Loren Johnston's Princeton household because it provides her with two very young "sisters" to play with. Below: Mrs. Johnston gives Pat a piano lesson. More about Pat and Oscar in story, this page.

Both Pat and Oscar live with Quaker families and have attended Friends Meeting in Princeton. They want to return, but they also want to visit all Princeton churches—Oscar, in particular is interested in such visits—and then settle on the one they find most congenial to their needs.

Adjustment to life and school in Princeton has been tranquil and pleasant, so far. Before Oscar and Pat came, their hostesses, Mrs. Bol and Mrs. Johnston called on Thomas Seraydarian, guidance counselor at Princeton High, to go over with him the academic biography they had of each child, and to plan a tentative schedule. Then, when Pat and Oscar arrived, all four visited Mr. Seraydarian and made a final schedule.

Both families found Mr. Seraydarian extremely helpful, and the hostesses have commented on his warm and enthusiastic greeting of the two students.

They're "at Home." Pat and Oscar attend Princeton High School on the same tuition-free basis as American Field Service students from abroad. The two host families absorb the cost of room and board, and Princeton Friends Meeting pays for such things as dental care, day trips, and tickets home at Christmas-time.

Commenting on the gamble involved in taking an unknown child, even a gifted one, into one's home for two years, Mrs. Johnston says, "We wondered about it, of course, before they actually got here, but now, it's just a thing we're glad we've known them."

For their two young guests, the Bol and Johnston families plan trips to nearby colleges, concerts, family parties with friends and art introductions to other young people.

What do the youngsters hope to do while they're here?
 Oscar . . . learn to ice-skate
 . . . visit the observatory . . . make trips to nearby colleges

STATE FAIR TO OPEN

Saturday At Trenton. The New Jersey State Fair, celebrating its 150th anniversary this year, will open Saturday and run through Sunday, the 22nd. The fair, as usual, will be held on the Trenton Fair Grounds in Hamilton Township, just over the Trenton city line.

The Firemen's parade will open the Fair with the formation scheduled to march at 2:30. Later there will be programs by bands and drum corps and by majorettes and twirlers. In the evening, Ricky Nelson will feature the grandstand show with the Aquas Spectacular and Dancing Waters.

A 100-mile midget auto race, a free horse show in the afternoon, and the crowning of Queen of the Fair will highlight Sunday's activities. Monday will be children's day with Pip the Piper and Bullwinkle featured.

Other highlights on succeeding days include: Future Farmers' Day, Tuesday; Tex Ritter Show, Wednesday; Governor's Day with Governor Richard J. Hughes, Thursday; and Joe Chicwood and his daredevil drivers, Friday and Saturday.

Dick Clark and his American Bandstand will be the leading event of the Friday and Saturday evening shows. The fair will close with a spectacular 200-mile race on Sunday. Time trials for the race will be on Saturday.

The tenor of the Fair has changed over the years. Emphasis has shifted to the industrial, spare and educational advantages of the state in place of agricultural ones. The racing auto has supplanted the horse as the number one attraction.

HISTORIC DOORS OPEN

For Benefit Tour. A tour of historic houses in the Millstone Valley will be held next Saturday, September 22, in order to raise funds to furnish and redecorate "Rockingham," George Washington's headquarters near Rocky Hill.

Houses will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. All are 18th-century homes, and all of them have noteworthy architectural features and antiques.

FUNERAL HOME
Walnut 4-0018

Sponsored by the Franklin Township Historical Society, the 22-mile tour will encompass five homes and the Hillsborough Reformed Church.

The first house is the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Henry on the canal at Griggstown. A restored lock-keeper's cottage, it has brick-filled walls and the original floors. North on the Blackwell's Mill bridge, River Road, is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Watson, "Blackwell's Mill," built at the end of the 18th century. This home is noted for its extensive gardens and for its English and American antiques.

Past the Hillsborough Church, a land-mark in the area for 200 years, the tour continues to "Overbrook Farm," home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. P. Alsop. Built in 1760 with additions in 1813 and 1852, the house has been maintained by a direct line of descendants from the original owner.

This house has a "peace button," an ivory disc set into the newel post by the builder as a token of amity between him and the owner during construction.

Mr. and Mrs. Alsop have restored the house to its original design, furnishing it with family heirlooms from the early 18th to the mid-19th centuries.

The Cortelyou Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell W. Forbes is known as the Aaron Hageman house. Built in 1777, the house was constructed from plans still on file in the Library of Congress. Splendid boxwood hedges surround the house, and there is a large collection of European pewter inside.

The home of Mrs. W. C. Godsey, Jr., is a complete restoration of a house that was destroyed by fire a few years ago. Only one mantel was saved. Mrs. Godsey has replaced a collection of china with Blue Staffordshire, Gaudy Dutch, Lustre, Meissen and Worcester 1835, all of which will be on display.

During the tour, a small building on the grounds of

WE, THE PEOPLE
(Congressman Frank Thompson, Jr., up for re-election this fall in Mercer and Burlington counties on the Democratic ticket, has quizzed the voters in his home area.)

More than half oppose federal funds for teachers' salaries and fall-out shelters. Nearly 75 percent oppose admitting Red China to the U.N. and 71 percent favored the Peace Corps. An equally clear majority favor and favor less in the atmosphere. Congressman Thompson's comments and the statistics on 18 public issues follow.

Early in July I mailed nearly 55,000 questionnaires to residents of the Fourth Congressional District in order to get a sampling of opinion on the major issues facing Congress this year. More than 10,000 people, nearly 20 percent of those who received my questionnaire, filled it in and returned it, and I am informed by experts in the field that this is an extraordinary-highly high response.

The high rate of return and the fact that a great many of those who responded took the time to write personal comments on the issues represent ed, as well as on other leading issues, is strong indication that the voters of the Fourth District are well abreast of current events. I was sincerely impressed with the thoughtfulness of the comments and the seriousness with which people approached the task of expressing their opinions to their Representative in Congress.

While the tabulated answers speak for themselves, a few comments are in order. More people expressed an opinion on health insurance for the aged than on any other question, confirming Kennedy's belief that this will be a major issue in the 1962 election.

The question that fewest people expressed an opinion on had to do with appropriations for the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. In my view this is a reflection of the fact that the agency is new one and its activities have not received a great deal of publicity. In a future newsletter, I will discuss the purpose and operations of the agency.

On several questions the responses were quite unexpected. An overwhelming majority of people favored continuation of the Peace Corps, favoring federal Communications Commission taking steps to raise the quality of commercial TV programs, approved of President Kennedy's decision to resume nuclear tests, and opposed admission of Red China to the United Nations. On the question of Federal aid to education, a strong majority favored financial assistance to the states for school construction, but by almost the same percentages a majority opposed aid for teachers' salaries.

The questions that I presented to the Fourth District residents were phrased in the form of the specific legislation before the Congress, and every effort was made to present the issues in as objective a manner as possible. I wish to express my thanks to all those who helped in this project by letting me know their opinions, and I hope the results will be of interest to all. The final tabulation follows:

1. Do you favor or oppose the plan for the United States to buy up $100 million of United Nations bonds to help pay for United Nations special operations in the Congo, for the Middle East, and elsewhere?

LABORATORIES TO OPEN
In Hightstown. The National Lead Company will officially open its Hightstown Laboratories on Tuesday, Gov. Richard J. Hughes and the company's president, Joseph A. Martino, will participate in ceremonies at 11 a.m.

Some 250 guests will attend a luncheon and go on tours of the facilities. The building is the first unit of a research center that will be built on a 250-acre site adjacent to the New Jersey Turnpike at Hightstown.

The building contains 87,000 square feet for research and development work in the fields of non-ferrous metals, pigments and paints, lead chemicals, plastics and resins. The technical staff of 150 has been transferred from the firm's former research laboratories in Brooklyn, N. Y.

FINN TO REMAIN HERE
Headquarters in Princeton. Business Supplies Corporation of America, 42 Nassau Street, has announced that it will relocate its corporate headquarters here. The office of its secretary and general counsel will continue to be located at 90 Nassau Street.

An accounting office of its Tabulating Card Company division has been combined with the firm's training center in Canadensis, Pa. The consolidation involved moving five or six employees from the Princeton area.

The company has a Data Supplies division plant on U. S. 1 about four miles north of the Penn Neck Traffic Circle. It also has an electrolyte manufacturing plant and a card design facility in the same area but about 500 feet closer to the Princeton Township line.

PORTRAIT STUDIO OPENS
On Manservant Road. Pat Del Moran, portraitist who has exhibited in New York and the Southwest, has opened a studio at 173 Manservant Road. Mrs. Moran has made a specialty of oil portraits from life. She is a graduate of Carnegie Institute of Technology and has done graduate work at Columbia University. Further information may be obtained by calling the studio, WAint 5-0864.

CLAIM YOUR OWN
At Masselos' Frame Shop. Customers who left picture-framing assignments at the Witherspoon shops of Constantine Masselos have been asked by Mr. Masselos' son, William, to come and claim their own.

On the walls of the shop at 8 Witherspoon, Mr. Masselos has hung all the customers' pictures he can find in both shops some finished, some in half-stages of completion, all without identifying names.

After September 30, the shop at 8 Witherspoon will be closed, and the stock moved down to 72 Witherspoon where Mr. Masselos, Sr., had his work shop.

The move has been necessitated by the illness of Constantine Masselos, and his son is offering the picture-framing business for sale. Prospective purchasers may interview William Masselos at the 8 Witherspoon location. The business has been in operation for the past decade.

Salon to Open
For Hair Styling. "The Beauty Nest," a new hairdressing salon, will open at 260 Nassau next Monday. The address was formerly occupied by the Ideal Beauty Salon.

The shop is owned and managed by Mrs. Louella Hamrich of Princeton, formerly associated with Artistic Hairdressers. Mrs. Hamrich's associate will be Mrs. Emma Tyman of New Brunswick, who was also with the Artistic Salon.

Mrs. Hamrich has been in the hairdressing business for 17 years and Mrs. Tyman has had 20 years' experience in the field. With a third staff member, the two will specialize in styling and in permanent waving by appointment.

THEY SELL SHELLS
Or More, if You Wish. Build-it-yourselfers who own a plot of land and would like to try their hand at plumbing or carpentry may do so by purchasing a pre-cut shell house from Abbee Trend, Route 130, Robbinsville.

Abbee goes on from there, building photo-engraving

Hobby Shop to Move

A Witherspoon fixture for 14 years, the Radio and Hobby Shop run by "Aaron," will move across the street on October 1.

Aaron Sioia, who likes to have his customers call him by his first name, will remove his model airplanes and knick-knacks in armor, his radio repair shop and his retail TV sales department to 11 Witherspoon, the premises vacated by Princeton Photo Process.

In his new shop across the lot, Aaron will have a full basement for his radio and TV repair, leaving more room in the air-conditioned upstairs for hobby supplies, models and radio sets.

The three-year lease was handled through Karl M. Light, real estate agent.

For lot-owners who have three thumbs and no inclination to put up a house on their own, in fact, Abbee offers its 172 models in almost any stage of construction, from the pre-cut shell referred to above, to a house with an interior package, and so on, giving the home-owner a chance to do everything or nothing by himself.

Abbee Trend are not builders, although they have subcontractors at the disposal of customers. On the lot at Route 130 address is a model of their "Monticello," erected on a lot with 70-foot frontage. Additional displays by the firm will be on view at the State Fair in Trenton, Building Number One, Booth 21.

Included in the 172 house styles offered by Abbee Trend are simple ranchers, more complex ranchers and a multitude of variations ranging up to bi-level homes. The Route 130 office, one of 30 in the east and middle-west, is open daily from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturdays from 9:30 to 6, and Sundays from 10 to 9.

EAGLES FLOCK TO STOP GAITERS: "Sophomore" Bob Gaiters (35), second-year halfback with the New York Giants, was the day's top running back (149 yards for 9.9 average) in Palmer Stadium Saturday as defending eastern champions trounced Philadelphia's 27-10. Here, veteran linebacker Chuck Bednarik (60) and Irv Cross (27) converge on the fast-moving Gaiters after nine-yard gain. (John Pietras Photo)

SPORTS In Princeton

PROS TAKE CHARGE

Giants did. Anyway, professional football dominated an unusual scene in Palmer Stadium Saturday and the New York Giants dominated the Philadelphia Eagles, 27 to 10. It was no contest after the first half, which ended with Coach Allie Sherman's vastly-improved Blues holding a 24-3 margin over the white-clad Eagles.

The ease with which the Giants won, and the manner in which both their lines out-charged and outplayed the opposition had the experts refiguring the chances of the two teams in the upcoming National Football League race which opens Sunday. Word was that the injury-ridden Giants (who play their first four games on the road) might drop out of contention before they ever played in Yankee Stadium.

They open with Cleveland this weekend, then meet the Eagles at Franklin Field in the first of two regular-season contests. After that, it's the Pittsburgh Steelers and St. Louis Cardinals — both of whom figure to have a shot at the eastern division title in a wide open race.

But after stumbling to a 1-2-1 record in their first four exhibition games this summer, and incurring more pre-season injuries than any time in the post-war years, the New Yorkers took charge in a hurry on Saturday. Only the prompt arrivals in the near-sellout crowd of 44,966 saw halfback Bob Gaiters roar through a big hole in the right side of the Eagles' line and go 66 yards untouched. The play came at 1:40, with Don Chandler booting the extra point mechanically.

total offense, it was 512 to 286, with the greatest discrepancy in rushing — 214 to a mere 82 for the Eagles.

New York sportswriters were particularly content over the manner in which Gaiters and the veteran Phil King moved through the Eagles' big defensive line. Gaiters was credited with 149 yards in 15 carries for a 9.9 average. King with 111 yards in ten carries for 10.1.

The starting quarterbacks were about even in yardage gained passing (189 for Jurgensen to 183 for Title), but

The period wasn't half over before Chandler followed with a 22-yard field goal, to make it 10-0, and the Eagles fell steadily behind thereafter. A 44-yard pass play from Y. A. Title to end Joe Walton then produced a second TD. Walton breaking completely into the clear even before he caught the accurate toss.

The day's prettiest touchdown was launched from the Eagle seven just before the half ended. Title faked a hand-off to rookie halfback John Counts, who cross-bucked into the line. Walton then ran a short pattern from right to left and was again all alone when the pass floated into his hands at the goal line.

Eagles Avoid Whitewash. A 34-yard field goal by Bobby Walton in the second quarter gave the losers their first points and they racked up their lone TD in the final quarter on a 70-yard drive, largely against Giant reserves. As expected, it was the fleet, sure-handed Tommy McDonald who caught the pass from Sonny Jurgensen.

Prior to that, Chandler (who has taken over the place-kicking job from Pat Summerall) booted a 46-yard field goal. It had so much bang behind it, it could just as easily have been 56.

Honorary referee for the pre-game coin-tossing ceremonies was William H. "Red" Fricell, a member of the Class of 1910 at Princeton who was for many years a top referee for the Eastern Intercollegiate Football Association. He is, of course, best remembered for the Dartmouth-Cornell game two decades ago in which a fifth down was inadvertently awarded and the score of the contest reversed following a review of the motion pictures. Fricell tossed the coin, the Eagles lost the coin, and the Giants were off and running. Side-line photographers who were a mile slow in catching their cameras set were caught unawares as Gaiters sailed downfield into the Eagles' end zone with a scant 40 seconds of action gone.

Statistical Story. Game-end figures told how completely the Giants took charge. Their first down edge was 21-10. In

Simple Arithmetic

Spectators at the Eagles-Giants football game Saturday saw two sets of goal posts in each end zone, symbolic of the difference between college and professional rules. Ten yards in front of those Princeton uses for its games was a temporary set on each goal line to serve the pro cleans.

Some fans were a bit confused at first, but one sports box tenant had a whimsical solution. A booming Giant kickoff sailed over both crossbars. "Six punts," said the man from Brooklyn.

The similarity stopped there in completion percentage. It was 67 for Yats and 58 for Jurgensen, in roaring passes, it was three to one for the New Yorker, with Tuttle getting all of his in the first half to break the game open.

The Giants may be in for something of the same problem in hanging on to the ball that plagued them occasionally last year. They were guilty of four fumbles, one within the Eagles' ten-yard line. Rookie Johnny Counts had the ball squirt out of his hands twice.

The First Aid Unit was kept busy by various mishaps which beset those in the large crowd. There were several bee stings, a couple of fainting spells and a woman who was treated for a sprained back.

The latter was, indirectly, the victim of a fight which broke out in section 9 shortly after Township and State Police had quelled the fistfists. An ambulance rolled around the cinder track to the scene of the battle.

Out on a stretcher went the lady, her husband at her side muttering humbly, "Gee, honey, I didn't mean to hit YOU."

Sizeable Proceeds: The Jaycees reported that they will net a minimum of $120,000 for the various charities which will benefit from the game.

came up with their first position switch this week, moving Roy Pizarello from fullback to quarterback, where the 175-lb. sophomore will serve as a replacement for John Henrich. Seniors Bill Merlini and Brad Unquhart and sophomore Cosmo Iacavazzi provide all the depth Princeton needs at fullback, with Pizarello now third behind Henrich and junior Dick Springs.

Pizarello will be used to spell Henrich particularly on defense, resting the latter for the vital chores of signal-calling and blocking. With Springs' steady progress and this position switch, the question of adequate depth at quarterback is being gradually solved.

At center, Princeton will go with senior Bob Burruss, light at 180 but experienced, and sophomore Bob Duncan, a 210-lb. newcomer who has shown well in early practice sessions at Blairstown. Neither, however, will see much action on defense.

Plans are to wild-card here, shuffling in either Merlini or Iacavazzi, and using two fullbacks as linebackers. Since the incumbent fullbacks will do the punting as opposed to the switch which brought Roger Hoyt in last fall as a specialty kicker, one wild card (a single unlimited substitution) can

TIGERS HAVE A PROBLEM

Manpower at End Is Thin.

No football coach expects to have all 11 positions on his team develop to his satisfaction, and it is hardly a surprise to Dick Colman that he already has serious difficulties at a couple of spots — namely, end. Manpower was thin there to begin with, minor but delaying injuries have sidelined one key player, and it appears Princeton may be in some trouble there all season long.

There is one bright spot, and a host of question marks. The fixture is 6-3, 190-lb. Barry Schuman, a two-year letterman who ranks as a fine pass receiver. His all-around ability is such that he earned a place on the second all-Ivy team as a junior despite a leg injury that benched him for the final two games.

The biggest question mark is 6-4, 210-lb. Bill Howard whose presence is sorely needed on the right side of the line. He had a knee injury last fall that kept him out of the last two-thirds of the season.

So far at Blairstown, he has been unable to scrimmage because of a severe muscle pull. If he doesn't round into shape in time to start against Rutgers, the Tigers will be as weak here as they are strong at other spots.

A letterman with limited experience ranks behind Howard in the person of senior Dan Phillips; otherwise, it's a question of how fast one or more of several promising sophomores can develop.

Top among them are 6-1 Jim Batcheller, whose brother, Gordon, was an all-Ivy tackle here in 1959; 6-3 Kit Lawrence, a starter with Batcheller for the freshmen in 1961; and 6-2 Bill Robinson, who has shown well at Blairstown in pass receiving. Odds are they'll see more action than most sophomores, beginning right away against Rutgers.

PRINCETON ALL THE WAY. William Gordon (left), Charles Carroll and Anthony Ferrara are unanimous in their response to TOWN TOPICS' annual pre-season inquiry of how many games the University football team will win. All pick the Tigers to go undefeated in 1962.

Question of the Week

Question: How many games do you think the Princeton football team will win this fall?

Where asked: Around town.
William Gordon, 117 Bayard Lane, salesman. I think they'll go undefeated. I think they have the best material they've had in the past 10 years, the best since the days of Kazmaier. They also have some fine sophomores coming up in Cosmo Iacavazzi and Enrie Pascarella. I give a great vote of confidence to Dick Colman. I think he is a great coach and he'll do a tremendous job this year. He always has in the past.

Charles Carroll, 25 Madison Street, roofer. All of them. They have strength in every position and I don't see any team beating them this year. Baring injuries, they should go undefeated.

Anthony Ferrara, 24 Markham Road, carpenter. I think if they get by Rutgers and don't have any key injuries, they could go all the way. With all those returning lettermen and with the prospects of that freshman team that should be a year, the freshmen lost only one last year, but it was the big one, Yale. I just hope Colman has a great year.

Samuel Simpson, Skillman, tree expert. I think they should win all but one — the Yale game. Yale is going to have a rough team this year. They should beat Princeton but only by a one touchdown. Princeton is reported to have a very strong team this year but we won't really know until the first game with Rutgers. Harvard usually has a rough team, too, but this year I would say about them. The rest of them ought to be easy for Princeton — I hope.

Donald Miller, Liberty Avenue, Yardville, gas man for Public Service. I hope they win them all. If they lose to anybody this year it will be Rutgers, which has a lot of lettermen coming back. Their one weakness, I feel, is the backfield. It's too brittle. They have good players in every spot but they get hurt too easily. Riley is an example. All in all, I pick Princeton to win every game. They'll beat Rutgers by 14 points.

Lewis "Tiger" Robeson, 78 Nassau Street, bootblack. I feel if they beat Rutgers they ought to go right on through. Rutgers has a good team. They've been powerful recently and have beaten some good teams. Princeton must beat them this year — they've got a lot of stars — ain't got no better line. They have great sophomores in Iacavazzi and Pascarella, and have got good juniors and seniors coming back. Terpak's back. They're all back in the backfield — we've got a lot of depth. This should be the best team since Kazmaier's time. If Colman can't get the boys untangled and blocking, we won't lose. That's the main thing. Last year, King of Dartmouth got away from four or five of our fellows because they weren't tackling right.

Joseph Meyer, 26 Linden Lane, gas station attendant. I think they'll win six or seven this year. They have a lot more material this year than they have in past years. They have a good backfield and they are particularly strong at tailback. I hear they have a good freshman team coming up, too. I think they'll lose to Harvard, though.

Pete Webber, 195 Birch, FHS Junior and one of five returning Little Tiger football lettermen. I think they should lose just about all of them. They should beat Rutgers in the opener and the rest because they have a lot of good sophomores coming up. If they don't take Rutgers this year, they're sure to win them next year. From what I've heard and read, they are going to be strong in every position, especially in the backfield. Hear about their freshman team last year. They were pretty good. They lost only one.

Marshall Hay, Carter Road, student, Loomis School, Conn. I think they will win at least seven or eight. From what I hear they are supposed to have a lot of experienced players coming back, their line is supposed to be pretty good. I would say if they can get by Rutgers they should go somewhere. There would be a good cause for optimism. I don't think Rutgers will be as strong as they were last year. Harvard is supposed to be pretty strong this year but I still think Princeton will come out on top.

Robert James, 2 Evelyn Place, freshman, Dean College, Mass. Princeton will win eight and lose one. Their one loss will be to Dartmouth in the final game of the season. Dartmouth has a lot of returning lettermen and Bill King is a cinch to be All-Ivy quarterback. Princeton may be strong in every position. In the backfield they have depth in every position except quarterback. All they've got there is Herich but he's a good player. On the line, end is their weakest spot. They have a junior, Ed Costello, who is going to be good at tackle but they need a center who can play both ways which they don't have yet. The interior line is strong. They have a good group of sophomores coming up and their star is Cosmo Iacavazzi. He should help them.

He is an outstanding ball player. But they'll still lose to Dartmouth.

George Guadagno, Trenton, barber, Rialto Shop, Nassau Street. It will only be a guess, but I'll say they'll win seven. From the ones I've been talking to they all feel that Princeton is going to be strong this year. Another guess is that they will lose to Rutgers.

James Green, 11 Race Street, janitor. Henry Hall, I think Princeton will win them all, if they don't have any injuries. They have better material than any other team in the league. They have good depth in the backfield.

Peter Thomas, Patton Hall, University senior. All of them. We have everybody back but three starters and they have.

Sports In Princeton

was one of the mainstays of a ragged Hun line that shutout four opponents last year. His play at tackle could not be faulted. He and Kaplan, Hun's freshman sensation in 1951 and tallest player at 6'3", "will play on one side of the line," "Giltspie and Kaplan will give us a strong line on offense," said Waterman. "Between them, they can open up that left tackle hole all day. But," he added wistfully, "I guess we can't run the same play all day."

Few Prospects. At the moment, there are only a few prospects Waterman can count on to fill the vacancies in the backfield. One of the most outstanding is Mark Swidrig, a sophomore. Mark had limited experience as a linebacker as a freshman. This year Waterman indicated he plans to use him as a reserve for Young at quarterback or as a fullback or both.

Two other sophomore candidates are Jim Jaeger and Eric Landis. Both played on the javyee squad last fall. Jaeger, somewhat light at 145, will be seeking a starting assignment as a halfback. Landis and Swidrig will vie for the fullback slot.

Dave Penrose will be another "strong contender" for halfback. A senior, Dave has been a member of the javyee squad for three years but has never managed to live up to his potential. "I hope he'll find himself this year," said Waterman.

The line is the same story all over again. The strongest positions should be end with Kaplan anchored at one and Richards, hopefully, the other. A bright prospect is Alex Lange, 6-1", 180 pounds. A stand-out basketball player, Alex played two years ago, hurt his back, and did not report last year.

Three juniors and one senior will battle for the two open guard spots. All, says Waterman, weigh about 165 and have been reserves for the past two years. The juniors are Bob McPherson, Tom Falcay and Jay Hemphill. Richard Kaplow is a senior.

Hellman Moves Up. Bob Hellman should move up this year and play the other tackle position. Waterman feels the 175-pound Trentonian can do the job although he lacks experience. "Hellman," he said, "is a good athlete and has the desire."

There is no reason for optimism at center, either. The only candidate on the horizon is Bruce Fish, a 165-pound senior who played third-string last year. "I'm hoping Bruce can do the job at center," said Waterman.

Waterman and his new assistant, Bob Simpson, a student at the Theological Seminary, expect about 30 varsity candidates to appear for the first practice session. The Red and Black squad will scrimmage Notre Dame High School on Wednesday and Freddie the 22nd. A lot will depend on the ability of new players or transfers. "Some of them might be ball players,"

Waterman is making no predictions about the future; there are too many "ifs." One thing he can be sure of—his team will play on a better home gridiron. The entire Hun field has been regraded and resurfaced.

GET IN THE SWIM

YWCA Offers Varied Program. A training program for swimming instructors, a synchronized swim club, mother-toddler swim classes and ballet water skills are just part of a varied swimming program being offered by the Princeton YWCA this fall for women and girls in the surrounding area.

Training of aides for swimming instructors will start September 25 and will continue through the 28th. Four, two-hour classes will be held each morning, starting at 9:30. Following this, registrants will complete training by assisting in Y classes during a two-week period starting October 1.

Registration for all swimming classes at the YW will be held at the Y building on Avalon Place Wednesday through the 22nd. Classes will start October 1 and continue for 10 weeks.

Included in these classes are beginning swim classes with four different sections, intermediate swim classes, diving classes and Red Cross senior life saving classes. In addition, a junior life saving course will be offered to girls 12 and under.

A popular class in the program is the mother-toddler

Learn To Swim

A special feature of the YWCA's fall program is a Learn to Swim Week, including free swimming instruction for all women in the community. The program is scheduled for September 25-28.

Classes will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 in the morning for the four-day program. The Y urges participants to enroll during registration week, beginning next Wednesday through the 22nd. A medical certificate should be submitted to the Y before the first session.

group. This features special instruction to help the child feel at home in the water. Six sections for beginners will be included and one advanced class for children who can swim a short distance.

Entrants to the synchronized swim club and the water ballet group will meet Monday evenings at 9. During the first class, however, members must pass a test by the instructor.

All of the classes provide waist-slimming exercise. For many, no Y membership is required. For more detailed information—

Obituaries

John J. Collins, 69, of 95 Jefferson Road, died September 7 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. Mr. Collins, who was retired, had been a Pennsylvania Railroad agent in Princeton for 40 years. He had been associated with the Butler Travel Agency for the past five years.

A veteran of World War I, Mr. Collins was a member of the Princeton Lions Club and served for many years as secretary of Princeton Council 636, Knights of Columbus. He belonged to St. Vincent de Paul Society, the Holy Name Society of St. Paul's Church and Princeton Post 76, American Legion.

Mr. Collins is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ann Hopper Collins; a daughter, Mrs. Frank Brownell of Seattle, Washington; four sisters, Mrs. Charles H. Collins of New York City, Mrs. James W. Murray of Larchmont, N. Y., Mrs. Thomas Birch of Durham, N. C., and Mrs. Walter W. Parmelee of Peland, Me.; and five grandchildren.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home. A religious mass was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with interment in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Mrs. Gertrude Mary Anne Coor, 47, of 184 Jefferson Road, died September 8 in Princeton Hospital.

An authority on Siennese painting of the late Middle Ages and Renaissance, she was born in Frankfurt-am-Main, Germany. She attended the Schiller Schule in Frankfurt, Wells College, N. Y., the Universities of Munich and Perugia. In 1938, she came to the United States. She earned her master of arts degree at Bryn Mawr College and her doctorate at the Institute of Fine Arts of New York University.

She identified and reassembled the scattered works of thirteenth and fourteenth century painters of Siena, Italy. Her studies clarified the careers of Coppo di Marcovado, Andrea di Bartolo and Ugolino di Nino. In 1961 Princeton University Press published her book on the 13th century painter and sculptor Niccolò de' Landi.

Mrs. Coor held at various times research grants from the American Council of Learned Societies and the American Association of University Women. She served as a consultant to the Kress Collection and the Cleveland Museum, and lectured at numerous museums. She was a member of the art department at Rutgers University and also served as research assistant to Professor Milard Meiss, of the Institute for Advanced Study, and to the late Professor George Rowley, of Princeton University.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Thomas Coor, and two brothers, Richard H. Achenbach and Fritz Achenbach, both of Germany.

Funeral arrangements are under the direction of Kimble Funeral Home.

A memorial service was held at the Second Presbyterian Church. In lieu of flowers, donations for medical research were requested by the family.

Walter H. Matthews, 76, of 9 Euclid Avenue, Kingston, died September 4 after a short illness.

Born in Solebury, Pa., Mr. Matthews was a resident of Kingston since 1911. He was president of the board of trustees of Kingston Methodist Church, a member of the Kingston Volunteer Fire Company and the Junior O.U.A.M. of Trenton.

There are no direct survivors. Mr. Matthews was the husband of the late Kathryn Emmons Matthews. A private service was conducted by the Rev. Edward W. Thorn of the Kingston Methodist Church, interment was under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Joseph W. Caplan, 74, of 244 Hawthorne Avenue, died September 11 at Princeton Hospital.

A resident of Princeton for 49 years, he had been proprietor of the Princeton Army Navy Store and was a member of the Princeton Jewish Center.

He is survived by his wife, Stella Rosenthal Caplan; two daughters, Mrs. Alvin Bonin and Mrs. Max Bogart, both of Princeton; a son, Harold of New Rochelle, N. Y.; six grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Lena Kimmell of Trenton.

The service was held Wednesday at the Kimble Funeral Home. Rabbi Isaac Levin of the People of Truth Congregation, Trenton, officiating. Interment was in the People of Truth Cemetery.

Will S. Patee, 74, of 32 South Stanworth Drive, died September 6 at Merwick after a long illness. He was a retired executive of the Sun Oil Company. Born in Bethel, Conn., he was a member of the Prospect Street Presbyterian Church of Trenton, the Kiwanis Club of Princeton and Century Lodge No. 190 of South Orange.

Mr. Patee is survived by his wife, Helen-Mary Hockman Patee; two sons, Major Will S. Patee, Jr. of Washington, D. C., Capt. George Patee, serving overseas; a stepson, Frank W. Anderson of Merriest, Mass.; a daughter, Mrs. Charles Walter of Warwick, N. Y.; a brother, George of the South Orange; two sisters, Misses Lucy and Augusta Patee of Bethel, Conn., and five grandchildren.

The funeral was held in Miles Memorial Chapel of First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Donald M. Meisel officiating. Interment was at the convenience of the family under the direction of Mather Funeral Home.

sixth class to enter the School of Practical Nursing at Princeton Hospital.

They are Diane K. Murphy of Belle Mead, a June graduate of Princeton High School; Mrs. Virginia B. Harvey of Pennington, a graduate of Miss Fine's School and a Bridgford Junior College; and Elizabeth J. Wellwood of Cranbury, a graduate of Warwick Veterans Memorial High School. Warwick, B. J. Miss Murphy holds a Soroptimist Club scholarship. The total enrollment of the class is 20. Most of the students have served as volunteers or part-time workers in Princeton in anticipation of nursing careers.

PROGRAM OUTLINED
For Fall At YWCA.
The YWCA fall program includes eight new classes for women and a variety of classes for girls of all ages. Registration will begin Wednesday, September 19, and continue through the following Saturday.

"Designing the Baby," a program designed for the mother with her first child, will give young mothers a chance to participate in a social activity while the baby sleeps in the Nursery room. The group will meet Monday afternoons at 1.

Other new classes include "Favorite Recipes," a workshop in home arts, "Drawing for Fun," "Bridge for Fun," a chess clinic, language instruction in Russian and French and sailing on Lake Carnegie on Wednesday mornings at 9:30. All classes except sailing will begin October 1. Sailing will start September 18.

Classes that are returning to the adult program include modern dance, sewing, slimnastics, elementary recorder guitar, great books, duplicate bridge club, ceramics, bowling, art, ballroom dancing, bridge and English for the foreign-born.

100 POUNDS OF PIE: This is a pumpkin, alive and real, just a shade early for Halloween and just a shade larger than almost any other pumpkin around these parts. It was grown on the Chesterfield, N. J., farm of Charles Petersen, of Peterson's Market, Lawrenceville Road, who is shown here guarding it from small boys with jack-o'-lantern ideas and housewives with pie in their eyes. It weighs 100 pounds, stands 31 inches high and measures 20 inches through the diameter.

The program for girls includes a creative theatre class, modern dance, junior ballroom dancing, oil and water color painting and arts and crafts. There will be a music workshop for pre-schoolers and first graders.

A new trip club is planned for fourth through sixth grade girls. The Saturday P.M. Club for girls in the above age group will offer swimming, games and group activities. Other clubs will be Batton Twirlers, Drill Team, Y-Teen Club and a club for girls in first through third grades.

The schedule for registration: September 19, 6-10 p.m.; September 20, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; September 21, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; and September 22, 9 a.m. to noon.

News Of The CHURCHES

NEW PROGRAM OFFERED By Pastors' Association. Two new dilemmas which confront Protestants are being met in a modest way by the Princeton Pastors' Association. One is the Supreme Court ban on religion in the schools. The other is the impact of science on young minds to the detriment of religion.

Eleven of the 1,576 pupils at Princeton High School are enrolled in a "released time" course in religion conducted by the Pastors' Association at Calvary Baptist Church, located across the street from the high school.

The teachers of "Biblical Religion in the Modern World" are the Rev. Francis F. Huntington of Trinity Parish, who conducted the new non-denominational study program in the summer of 1960, and Rabbi Everett Gendler of the Princeton Jewish Center. Classes are held from 8:30 to 9:15 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

The Supreme Court ban has forced Protestant as well as the scant religious training the children receive. Fortunately through the Bible reading and prayers in the schools have been, parents seemed to feel that they retained Sunday School classes and home training.

"In reality, the average child gets about 25 hours a year of training in Sunday school," says the Rev. Huntington.

"One of the hardest things to teach is to get across a sense of human destiny," he said. "It is to get them to see the meaning of their existence in terms of human destiny rather than by purely scientific measurement." Notes of the Red Sea, for instance, is impossible to understand in terms of scientific measurement. Anyone who lives in the area of the Red Sea can tell you that there are no winds and the tide coming. The miracle involved the use of the natural world.

"Miracle does not mean the breaking of natural law. It is a human response. I think that's what it means in the Bible or in the world of religion."

Enrolled in the class are W. Perry Benson, Judith A. Ensminger, Beth Hurley, Mary Moran, Christine I. Rose, Mary L. Bachman, Jacqueline Young, Leslie Marie, Lenore Gurin, Claire Outelbridge and Ann Swetten. They are members of the Methodist, Episcopal, Lutheran and Presbyterian churches and the Jewish Center.

During the first month, the Rev. Mr. Huntington is making reading assignments to introduce the nature of religion. For the next six weeks Rabbi Gendler will discuss the literature of the Bible, history and insights into modern Judaism. The classes will meet until late spring.

Those are trying to fill a gap in their education," says the Rev. Mr. Huntington. "We are trying to give them some grounding in the religious traditions of America. We are teaching the Bible rather intensively, to enable the stu-

"RELEASED TIME" STUDENTS STUDY RELIGION. The Rev. Francis F. Huntington is pastor of the church. Other students released three hours a week from the school schedule. Classes are held at nearby Calvary Baptist Church.

"We are asking them to take a good, solid look at the Bible, to see what these two great religions have to say and then to make up their own minds as to their response to this. We don't discuss our personal beliefs. We ask them to understand and face the experiences of the people in the Bible. Through this study, we hope to introduce them to the religious aspects of life."

The "released time" program of the Pastors' Association is roughly compared to the "shared time" proposal which has been made by the superintendent of the Englewood public schools, Dr. Harry L. Stearns. He suggested that children be allowed to take some courses in public schools and others in church-related schools, making use of the extensive classroom facilities available at the churches. "Our program drew out of my own sense of frustration," comments the Rev. Mr. Huntington, "over the average kind of teen program at Trinity Parish. Some of the teens expressed a desire to learn more and I was frustrated. So we originated a group which met after school three times a week at Calvary Baptist."

His assignment to the class for the coming lesson is to read specified chapters of the Bible and "look in the papers for a news story—I won't hold you to it if you can't find one which is an example of religion in action."

ANNEX STARTED

By Hopewell Calvary Baptist. Work has begun on the $60,000 educational wing to the Hopewell First Calvary Baptist Church.

The building project will contain classrooms, a church office, crib room, church parsonage, choir robing room and a youth room. Primary and nursery classes will be held in the building.

The Rev. Curtis L. Hoffman is pastor of the church. Other clergy include J. Russell Rife, chairman for the building committee; George McDaniel, less, board of deacons; Wilfred Allen, chairman of the trustees; Dr. L. H. Conover, Christian education; Mrs. Alice Guna, church school superintendent; and Mrs. Norman Newell, minister of music.

The new wing is expected to be completed early in November.

BIRTHDAYS PLANNED

By Two Churches. On Sunday, September 23, Hillsborough Presbyterian Church will observe its first anniversary. Hillsborough Presbyterian Church will mark its first anniversary. Hillsborough Presbyterian Church will mark its first anniversary.

The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Orion C. Hopper, who conducted the first service on September 24, 1961, in the Hillsborough Consolidated School, will give the sermon at 10 on Sunday.

The Rev. George Aase will officiate at a special 3:30 p.m. service on the 23rd at Bunker Hill Lutheran Church. Dedication ceremonies for the new parsonage will follow.

Two clergymen, who helped organize the church in 1957, will take part in the dedication. The Rev. Theodore Thompson, second vice president of the Church of the Lutheran Brethren, will speak and officiate. Greetings will be given by the Rev. Thorvald Fergesen of Brooklyn, N. Y. There will be special music by the choir, and refreshments will be served in the church basement.

The church now has an enrollment of 140 children in its Sunday school; between 125 and 160 communicants attend the Sunday morning worship services.

WITNESSES TO GATHER

This Weekend. A delegation of about 100 Presbyterians from the Central Unit congregation will attend a three-day Bible assembly this weekend in Mount Holly. The representatives from 19 central New Jersey congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses at 8:45 Friday in the Rancocas Valley Regional High School. They will be welcomed by Joseph Saia, district supervisor.

Highlights of the assembly will be Friday's model "Ministry School," Saturday's baptism for new ministers, and the keynote speech at 3 p.m. Sunday, "The Bible's Answer to Our Problem of Survival."

"The purpose of our assemblies," explains James E. Hart of the Central Unit, "is to analyze and improve our public teaching ministry as well as to acquaint people with our free Bible education program."

He extends an invitation to all interested individuals to attend the assembly sessions, which he says, "Often," he says, "people have wondered about the work of the Witnesses; this assembly will afford them the opportunity to observe firsthand."

MT. ZION MAKES PLANS

For Cornerstone Ceremony. Members of the Mt. Zion A.M.E. Church will lay the cornerstone for their new church building at 3 this Sunday.

The church, located off Route 27 near Kingston, was founded nearly 100 years ago. The pastor, the Rev. Nathaniel Pharms, began in 1959 to raise funds to replace the present church building.

Mrs. Lillian Burnett is chairman for the ceremony. All friends of the church are invited.

TEA PARTY PLANNED

To Aid Synodical Homes. A "Silver Tea" will be held from 3 to 5 on Monday, September 24, by the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church to benefit the Synodical Homes for the Aged.

The affair will take place at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Hornigswagner, 117 Liberty Place. Mrs. C. L. Groom, will be hostesses, with Mrs. Helen Stevenson as chairman. Mrs. Orion C. Hopper is First Presbyterian's representative for the homes, which are maintained by the Synod of New Jersey at Haddonfield and Belvidere. Mrs. John L. McKee is chairman of the World Service Department of the church.

HARVEST HOME SET

By Rocky Hill Reformed. The annual Harvest Home of Rocky Hill Reformed Church will begin at 4:30 Saturday, September 29. Mrs. Carl Robbins, president of the Women's Guild, is chairman. Assisting Mrs. Robbins in planning the turkey dinner are Mrs. Joseph Harms, dining room; Mrs. Lloyd Lewis, kitchen; Mr. Ed Weimer, food buying; Mrs. Robert En-glebrecht and Mrs. Clarence Schlapier, publicity.

PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS

At Trinity. Women of their Tuesday sewing sessions for the Christmas Fair at 10 a.m. this Tuesday. The fair is scheduled for Saturday, December 1. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Sanders Maxwell and Mrs. Henderson Talbot. As in previous years, the fair will feature handknit articles suitable for Christmas use.

Committee members include Mrs. Stuart Duncan 2nd, Mrs. Curtis S. Hitchcock, Mrs. John L. McLaughlin, Mrs. Helen Myers, Mrs. Willis G. Neely, Mrs. William R. Patton, Mrs. Richard K. Paynter 3rd, Mrs. Deane C. Skinner Jr., Mrs. Gavin Hitchcock-Smith, Mrs. Sydney G. Stevens, Mrs. Gilbert C. Turner and Mrs. John H. Wallace Jr.

WESTERN SECTION, spacious contemporary ranch, quality built with redwood exterior and pebbled roof. The spacious high ceilings living room with vast Pella windows, entrance looks out on trees in the rear. Four spacious bedrooms, excellent closets, three baths, formal dining room, two magnificent fireplaces and colonial (game room) make it an ideal family home. $65,000.

All are spacious rooms in this perfectly kept two-story Township home — where also you can enjoy a 17 x 12 master and three other bedrooms of 12 x 14. The den is cozy, the living room has personality, the three baths are well placed and the dining room unusual. See it, $45,000.

Even reluctant dragons can get to high school on time from this lovely Borough of Clinton with its four bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths, large living and separate dining room, its ample ple order makes possible early occupancy and full enjoyment of the well-treed half acre. $45,000.

Doesn't anyone see the advantages in an inexpensive but delightful apartment in its location among more expensive Township homes? A small family who can use three bedrooms and a large family room and who love trees should have a ball at $25,000.

The last of the Mohicans — several prime treed Borough lots available for building to your plans or ours.

Are Your Doors Weatherstripped Like This?

At PRINCETON RIDGE all outside doors are "positively" weatherstripped. Drafts just don't have a chance. A trip to Rocky Hill will allow you to study the quality construction details of the homes now being built at PRINCETON RIDGE; such as, for example, the permanently soldered joints on the galvanized gutters and downspouts. Our plans and specifications are also always available for your perusal.

For any information concerning PRINCETON RIDGE, do not hesitate to call WALnut 1-2288 at any time.

When Do You Want Your Home Air Conditioned?

Now, next year, in five years? It makes no difference to homeowners at PRINCETON RIDGE because the homes have been engineered to accept an air conditioning compressor and evaporating coil at your command. The Lennox forced warm air furnace, its thermostat wiring plus 100 amp electrical service, and its ductwork have been sized with your summer comfort in mind. It is this kind of planned engineering that make the PRINCETON RIDGE homes enduring values. Drive out to Rocky Hill and see for yourself what we mean.

Sales Office At models — WAInut 1-2288

THE TREES STAYED... AND SO WILL YOU!

When these lovely homes were built in Lawrence Township...the trees stayed. Hundreds of towering oaks and pines, majestic hickories and flowering dogwoods. The land was the site of a famous tree nursery. The soil is rich, the terrain gently rolling. Next door to the Green Acres Golf Course. An elementary school right on the grounds. Only one mile to the new Lawrenceville Shopping Center. Ten minutes from Princeton and Trenton.

This perfect site attracted one of the finest custom home builders of Princeton. He is building these 33 homes with the quality and luxury features that are his trademark. Come out today. You'll stay!

If you don't want a better home. No home owner in the Princeton area needs a home. However, if you simply WANT a bigger home for the same money that you can sell yours, doesn't it make sense to look at the PRINCETON RIDGE models in Rocky Hill. Reason: Equivalent living space in Princeton sells for over $10,000 more. Three other places at PRINCETON RIDGE: Princeton Borough schools, lower taxes, larger lots (one acre or more).
